CAMPUS SOON TO BE VACATED

Cardinal Farley Academy Closing Its Doors

RHINECLIFF

Cardinal Farley Military Academy, overlooking the Hudson at Rhinecliff, will cease operation at the end of the Spring semester, according to announcement made today by the Board of Trustees.

Decreasing enrollment over the past five years was held responsible for the closing of the facility which is designed to accommodate 300 boarding students but has a present enrollment of 123.

Less than a dozen students each from Ulster, Dutchess and Greene counties will be affected. The balance of the student body is from areas outside the Mid-Hudson Valley. Several members of the faculty are from the Ulster-Dutchess area however.

No determination by the board has been made as to the eventual utilization of the property which is located on the historic thousand acre "Ellerslie" estate which once belonged to Levi P. Morton, vice president of the United States, Minister to France and Governor of New York State.

The original Morton mansion which once housed the school was destroyed by fire in 1950 and since then seven new buildings have been constructed.

Considered one of the finest educational plants in the area, the main campus structures include three modern dormitory buildings, a new administration and classroom building, extensive indoor pool and gymnasium facilities.

Camp Ellerslie, a summer boarding and day camp that had operated at the academy for the past three years will also not open this year.

The Academy is a military institute with honor rating in the Junior ROTC program. Accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary schools, it is a member of both the National and New York State Associations of Independent Schools.

Founded in 1942 by Francis Cardinal Spellman and the Congregation of the Christian Brothers, it is an autonomous corporation.

Located on Morton Road, the estate was donated to the Archdiocese of New York by Gov. Morton's daughter, Helen to be used for educational purposes.

Stockport Fire Kills Seven

Mother Perishes in Vain Rescue Try

By JON POWERS

STOCKPORT

The charred ruins of a two-story ramshackle house in this rural community north of Hudson is all that remains after a roaring midnight fire claimed the lives of seven of the nine occupants.

Today police and fire officials are trying to determine how the blaze ignited and in what way the nine occupants of the building were related.

Killed in the fire were Mrs. Frances Lasher, 44, and Mrs. Maria Grasso, 24, believed to have been sisters. Mrs. Lasher also is believed to be the mother of four of the children who died in the fire, Donald Cutler, 17; Kenneth Calkins, 8; Shane Cutler, 1, and Deborah Lasher, 12. Paul Grasso, 3, a son of Mrs. Grasso also perished in the fire.

Columbia County Sheriff Deputies told The Freeman today that they are checking with local welfare agencies in an attempt to determine the exact line of relationship.

The two survivors of the fire, Ronald Cutler 17, twin brother of Donald and Tammy Calkins, 4, were treated early today at Columbia Memorial Hospital, Hudson for smoke inhalation and later released. Sheriff's deputies said their whereabouts at this time is not known.

Exhausted firemen today recounted their activities beginning when the first alarm was sounded at 11:20 Tuesday night. Upon their arrival, according to Stockport's Fire Chief Robert Plass, flames were shooting through the roof of the structure. "There was no chance of saving the house," said Plass.

Another fireman told The Freeman that he went to the rear of the house upon his arrival at the scene and found two children, Ronald Cutler and Tammy Calkins sitting on the steps of the back porch.

Fire officials say that the two survivors were apparently aroused by Mrs. Lasher and escorted out the back door. Mrs. Lasher then went back into the house and attempted in vain to save the others.

Five badly charred bodies were found by firemen in the upstairs section of the house. The bodies of Mrs. Lasher and a baby were found downstairs; with firemen speculating that the two plunged through the upstairs floor of the home. The seven bodies were taken to a funeral home in Hudson where they will remain for positive identification.

The home was located on top of a hill, about a mile from the Stockport Firehouse. The nearest neighboring house was more than a half mile away.

Responding to the late night alarm were 14 pieces of equipment and 75 firemen from four volunteer fire companies. In addition five neighboring companies were put on standby.

Apollo Sweeps Into Lunar Grasp For Its Friday Date With Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 14 swept into the grasp of lunar gravity today and sped on toward a Thursday morning orbit of the moon.

Earlier, astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell inspected their landing craft Antares and declared it ready to transport them to a precision landing in ancient lunar highlands Friday.

"Immaculate," said Cmdr. Shepard of the moon lander.

To Mission Control Center they televised a picture of their target, a shimmering half crescent that loomed larger and larger as their home planet shrank in the distance.

At 9:12 a.m. EST, Shepard, Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa zipped through a so-called "twilight zone" in which the gravitational influence of the earth and moon is equal. They were 212,774 miles from earth and 38,894 miles from the moon.

When Apollo 14 passed this invisible line, the moon won the gravitational tug of war and the spaceship's speed accelerated after slowing to about 1,600 miles per hour on the long outward coast.

The speed will increase to about 5,700 miles per hour as the astronauts loop behind the moon's backside early Thursday. At 2:01 a.m. they are to fire the engine of the command ship Kitty Hawk to whip into lunar orbit.

The spacemen were in a sleep period as they entered the lunar sphere of influence, resting for the gruelling days ahead in the vicinity of the moon.

About 4:20 a.m. today Shepard and Mitchell floated through a connecting tunnel into the lunar module while Roosa remained in the command ship. The two craft are linked nose to nose.

Following the extensive two and one-half hour examination, the two astronauts returned to the Kitty Hawk and reported Antares in good condition for the daring descent to the highlands of Fra Mauro.

Before opening the tunnel hatches, Mitchell manned the television camera, panning it around the command cabin to show switches and dials. He pointed it out a window and zoomed in on the moon.

They were about 205,000 miles from home and 41,000 miles from the moon.

Mission Control informed the astronauts their families were in the center watching the telecast.

"Yeah, 3:15 a.m. (CST) is a good time of night to have a TV show," Roosa remarked.

Shepard and Mitchell also showed TV pictures inside the lunar module as they checked out switches, the communications and other systems.

Mitchell said they found only one washer floating about in the weightless cabin.

"A lot of credit goes to the ground checkout crew, because the spacecraft is really clean," Mitchell said.

Asked to evaluate the overall status of the mission, commander Shepard replied: "We have a happy little ship here. Everything is going along very smoothly."

After a day in orbit, in which the combined ships will dip to within 11.5 miles of the surface, Shepard and Mitchell once again transfer into Antares, separate and make the diving descent to the moon, skimming over 600-foot-high ridges, craters and mammoth boulders to touch down in the Fra Mauro highlands near the Ocean of Storms.

Scheduled landing time is 4:16 a.m. Friday. Within hours, Shepard and Mitchell are to become the fifth and sixth humans, all American, to set foot on the moon. With television relaying his step to the surface, Shepard is to be first down the ladder at 8:53 a.m.

During 34 hours on the moon, the astronauts plan two outside excursions, each lasting four to five hours.

The first will be devoted mainly to deploying an atomic-powered science station intended to transmit data for a year or more on such things as moonquakes, meteor hits, magnetic fields, temperatures and radiation flow.

On the second, Shepard and Mitchell are to travel nearly a mile from the lunar landing ship on a geology field trip. They hope to find lunar material that may be as old as the moon and thus could provide clues to the origin of the moon, earth and solar system.

All were believed created at the same time 4.6 billion years ago by the convulsive merging of space rocks, and dust a great gas cloud.

Council Votes $2,300 for Library

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Library got another $2,300 from the Common Council Tuesday night—enough to keep it operating at full capacity until April—but not without a few disparaging words.

Alderman John P. Heitzman (D-First Ward) was the only negative vote because he said the library wasn't pulling its own (financial) weight and the "buck" from the city had to stop someplace.

Heitzman also said he was "tired of being pressured about closings if we don't come up with more money. We're always the bad guys," he said.

The library had asked the city for $52,200 but was granted only $42,000 in Mayor Francis R. Koenig's 1971 budget, passed on Jan. 12. Library trustees later announced that the children's library would have to be closed due to lack of funds.

Questions were raised as to why the additional money hadn't been appropriated in the original budget. Alderman Edward Norton (D-11th Ward), chairman of the Finance, Ways and Means Committee, answered that by stating that the seriousness of the situation had been misunderstood in pre-budget discussions with library trustees but that post-budget passage discussions brought it home and the $2,300.

The library will embark on a fund-raising drive late this month in order to raise the additional $7,700 it feels it needs to operate for 1971.

Another big topic of discussion was Kingston Cablevision's raising its rates in the city from $4.95 a month to $5.95, effective Feb. 1.

According to Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee, who discussed the matter with Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein, there isn't much the city can do about the rate increase, short of revoking the company's franchise.

Alderman John Machione (R-Second Ward) touched on that possibility but did not press for revocation of the franchise, instead asking for a complete study of the franchise.

Quick asked that letters be sent to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison Jr. asking for their support in bringing cable television companies under the control of the Public Service Commission.

There was also a discussion of bus stops, the one in particular that used to be at the corner of Wall and John Streets that was moved down Wall to near the Old Dutch Church.

There had been a letter of complaint from Abram's Music Store at John and Wall which led to the change in bus stops. Store owners complained of fumes from the buses and uninvited layovers from passengers from the buses in the store.

Michael S. Perry (D-Seventh Ward), chairman of the Railroad and Bus Committee of the Council, noting other complaints, said that he had ridden the buses for three hours on Monday and found them all on time. He noted that the owner had been operating at a loss ever since he came to Kingston last January and if complaints continued he might abandon the franchise and let the city run it.

There was a letter of protest from the Kingston Savings Bank concerning the inclusion of a property, at 20 John Street, owned by the bank, on the Landmarks Preservation list.

The bank said it had intended to demolish the building for an access for its drive-in windows from Main Street to John Street. Historic landmarks cannot be demolished.

Alderman Quick said that the bank had indicated previously that it was abandoning its plans for the John Street egress and that the building was then cleared as an historic site.

The matter was referred back to the Historic Landmarks Commission for further study.

Urban renewal in Broadway East was attacked by one alderman, Emillio Primo (D-Eighth Ward) and defended by another, Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward).

Primo noted that reconstruction with sewer and water lines was planned for seven uptown streets by the agency but that work had been left "half done" in Broadway East on Murray Street, Hanratty Street and Jerold Street. "Personally, I think they're forgetting Broadway East," Primo said.

Not so, said Sinsabaugh, the chairman of the Urban Renewal Committee. He said that bad weather had stopped just about all street construction but that it would resume (in Broadway East) when the weather breaks.

The aldermen also voted to set up parking meters in the parking lot between the bus terminal and the city auditorium on Broadway. Also, they followed up on an executive order from Mayor Koenig preventing left turns into Abeel Street from the Rondout Bridge weekdays from 4 to 6 p. m.

Mayor Koenig sent a communication outlining plans for a youth and government program in conjunction with the Colonial Chapter of the Order of Demolay.

According to a letter from Harlow DeForest, advisor for the local chapter, he, the mayor and Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo have worked out details for the program which will begin with a tour of city hall later this month by the young men of Demolay.

They will attend the March 2 meeting of the Council and elect city officers from their ranks following that meeting.

Youth and Government Day will be marked on April 2 and on April 6 members of Demolay will hold a "mock" Common Council meeting during recess of the regular April 6 meeting of the Council.

Last night's Council meeting was recessed in memory of former Alderman and Water Commissioner Sam N. Mann, who died last week. David Freer, a retired city employe was also remembered.

Ulster County Drug Commission Proposed by Legislator Scala

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The establishment of an Ulster County Drug Commission is being called for by Legislator Charles Scala (R-Dist. 1) who filed a resolution today requesting an 11-member commission who will serve without compensation and include some individuals under 21 years of age.

Acting in behalf of the Legislative Committee on Drug Abuse and Prevention, Scala's resolution stipulates that commission member be appointed to one-year terms by the chairman of the Legislature Peter J. Savago.

Action in the matter will be taken at the Thursday, Feb. 11 meeting of the County Board at 8 p.m. in the County Office Building.

Scala said he envisions the charter of the commmission being broad enough in scope to consider all aspects of the drug situation in Ulster County.

The Commission will have the authority to review all programs receiving federal and New York State funds but the grant participation programs will receive only tentative approval from Ulster County because the final decision lies at either the federal or state level.

The Commission, in coordinating all activities within the county, will also be empowered to initiate programs on a county-wide basis. Presently drug councils exist in the City of Kingston as well as in the Towns of Saugerties and New Paltz.

Scala said that participation by members of the Legislature, the county attorney, director of the Mental Health Board and the commissioner of the Health Department, as ex - officio members should make it easier for all involved to administer the needs of the county.

"The job facing the commission is a very complex one," Scala said. "an evaluation of the specific problems in our county must be made and the proposed solution then compared against them. Its success or failure will depend upon the cooperation and involvement of members of the community. Its structure is designed to allow for maximum community participation through the creation of committees which can include other than those already serving on the commission.

Scala praised the work of the Narcotic Addiction Control Commission officials, William Arendt and Bernhardt Kramer who assisted the committee "in formulating the comprehensive plan during the short two months of its existence."

State Legislation calling for the establishment of County Drug Control Authorities to carry forward the battle for prevention and treatment of drug abuse in the state was only introduced in Albany two weeks ago by Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea.

Duryea said the authroities are intended to fill the middle ground between the state narcotic treatment facilities and the network of community Narcotic Guidance Councils. The Narcotics Guidance Council concept was pioneered by him and originally passed in the 1968 session of the State Legislature.

Under the 1971 legislation, the County Drug Control Authorities would be authorized to treat persons who are not certified addicts. The State's Narcotic Addiction Control Commission can treat only addicts who have been certified by the courts.

Funds for the County Drug Control Authority program are already available on a matching basis within the $65 million appropriation by the 1970 State Legislature for the assistance of local drug control facilities.

Scala commented that two-thirds of the $65 million has already been applied for but not necessarily appropriated.

School Absenteeism – Close Watch Kept

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

RHINEBECK — Health officials in Ulster and Dutchess Counties are keeping a close watch on school absenteeism due to the high incidence of flu and the closing of Rhinebeck Central's elementary grades for the remainder of the week.

Ralph Steeves, superintendent of Rhinebeck schools said since Monday absenteeism has increased to 30.9 per cent and on the advice of Dr. Vernon Link, Dutchess County health commissioner they have closed the elementary grades. He said they are planning to reopen Monday. Steeves said the school doctor, Dr. Frederick E. Cohn of Rhinebeck approved of the closing when the attendance figures were brought to his attention. The usual symptoms have been sore throat, high fever and sometimes associated with nausea and diarrhea.

At Red Hook Central, Russell Keefe, superintendent said they are watching the situation. They have had 15.7 per cent absenteeism on Monday and an increase to 17 per cent on Tuesday which is a little higher than the usual figures. At this time of year there is usually 90 per cent attendance, he noted.

Dr. Link said there was a similar situation at Millbrook Central and Trinity Pawling School, a private institution, about two weeks ago, when Millbrook was closed. In regard to Poughkeepsie schools, Dr. Link said they are getting a daily absentee count and up to this time there is no problem.

Louis A. Salzmann, superintendent of Kingston Schools Consolidated said they were having some problems with a 20 per cent absenteeism reported at the high school for various illnesses. He said they are watching it closely with the County Health Department. The elementary grades have about 12 to 15 per cent absenteeism, which is no problem at this time, he noted.

At Saugerties Central, Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent said they have been keeping an eye on the situation since the incidence of high absenteeism last week. The school physician, Dr. Richard B. Wenger has been in touch with school officials and there is nothing at this time to indicate that absenteeism is reaching epidemic proportions, he indicated.

There is no problem at Onteora Central where Dr. Frank Harlow, superintendent said at West Hurley School they had about 50 absentees, or less than 10 per cent.

Robert Robertaccio, superintendent at Rondout Valley Central said absenteeism is higher than usual, about 10 to 12 per cent and they are keeping in close touch with the County Health Department.

Dr. William C. Taylor, Ulster County health commissioner said he is conferring regularly with the school physician Dr. Irving Josephson. The only area that calls for a close watch right now is at Kingston where 20 per cent absenteeism has been reported, he said.

Prisoner Called In Penalty Trial

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON — A Green Haven prisoner serving a 10-30-year term for manslaughter, was called as the first witness for the prosecution Tuesday at the penalty trial for two convicted killers of a deputy sheriff on the State Thruway in 1968.

Edward Patrick Sullivan, 42, testified before County Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury that while in Green Haven Prison the two convicted killers of Deputy William Fitzgerald told him of a $5,000 "contract" to kill Joseph Singer, a deputy from Westchester county, who was a chief witness for the prosecution at both trials of Charles Culhane and Gerald McGivern, who are facing possible death in the electric chair or life in prison for the Sept. 13, 1968 fatal shooting.

Sullivan, who admitted a lengthy police record dating back to when he was 16, said that Culhane had told him in prison in 1969 that if the first trial of Culhane and McGivern looked badly, another prisoner, identified as Paul (Red) Tischler, would arrange — on his release — to carry out a contract to kill Singer. Sullivan testified the plan didn't work out as Tischler disappeared after he left prison.

The witness, who was expected to be followed by at least 12 more prosecution witnesses, also testified that Culhane had told him that his (Culhane's) brother, Billy had a machine gun and he would enter the courtroom and help the two convicted killers of Fitzgerald to escape.

At this point of cross-examination by Culhane of Sullivan, Culhane shouted to the witness;

"You can lie about me, but not about my family."

Sullivan admitted that he was known in prison circles as an "Informant" and said at one time he had worked as an informer for the district attorney in Queens County.

Culhane pressed the witness on the question of compensation for testifying at the current penalty trial for the prosecution.

Sullivan insisted that he wasn't getting any compensation for his appearance.

At one point of his cross-examination, Sullivan told Culhane, "You told me that you killed one man and wanted to kill another."

Several times during the afternoon session, Judge Mino cautioned Culhane and Sullivan when they engaged in loud exchange of words.

Our Voltage Dip Continues

KINGSTON — A five per cent voltage reduction continued today in the Mid-Hudson area but Central Hudson Gas and Electric did not anticipate another plea for customers to conserve power.

The cold wave which triggered the power emergency is expected to lift today. During the past two days the local utility had asked business and residental customers to voluntarily reduce power use during peak hours. Minford Overfield of the Kingston Central-Hudson office said today that although the voltage reduction was still in effect he did not anticipate that customer conservation requests would be necessary.

According to Associated Press the power drain afflicting New York., Pennsylvania. New Jersey. Maryland and the District of Columbia has forced utilities to purchase large blocks of power from Ontario Hydro. The cold weather meant an increase of three to four per cent above normal in the demand for power on Ontario too but Hydro officials said they still have about 500,000 kilowatts in reserve for emergencies.

In New York, Consolidated Edison made an urgent appeal to its major users and to the general public to avoid the non-essential use of power.

Survey Shows New York Trails California

State Legislature Trying Harder

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York state legislature ranks as the second-best state legislature in the country, after California, according to a nationwide study.

The study, which was headed by former California and New York legislative aides, faulted the New York legislature in such areas as accountability to the poeple, independence of the governor's office, and functional operation.

Assembly Speaker Perry B Duryea and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges, the leaders of the Republican-controlled legislature, said they were gratified with the findings of the report. They had little comment on the report's recommendations, which included a payraise for lawmakers into the $20,000 to $30,000-a-year range.

Duryea noted that no other legislature obtained top ratings in two categories. Brydges complained that the ratings did not consider the quality of legislation, under which, he said; "I am confident we would rate No. 1."

The study was released while the legislature was pondering the effect of Gov. Rockefeller's proposals to finance an $8.5-billion budget in the fiscal year beginning April 1 through $1.1 billion in tax increases.

Rockefeller submitted his 1971-72 budget proposal Monday to the legislature and many lawmakers already are encountering protests from their constituents.

The report evaluating state legislatures was issued by the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, a non-profit group with headquarters in Kansas City. The group's top three officials are Larry Margolis, former administrative assistant to Jess Unruh, former California Assembly Speaker; Karsten J Veig, former special consultant to the California Assembly, and Donald Glickman, former legislative aide to the New York Assembly.

In making its report, the group complimented New York for providing office space for lawmakers, conducting annual sessions without restrictions on length, and for installing an electronic voting device. The machines, which cost well over $100,000 have rarely been used.

The report recommended that the legislature reduce the number of committees, reduce the 150 - member Assembly to no more than 100 members and adopt a system of deadlines and make greater use of available time for sessions.

In this way, the report says, "it would be possible to reduce or eliminate the long-night sessions, the crowded calendars, the frequent necessity to suspend the rules and the circus atmosphere which attends the ending of annual sessions."

Dems . . . Strong Opposition

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A proposal to change the date of the state's primary elections from June to September faced strong opposition today from the legislature's Democratic minority and a bipartisan citizens group.

Sen. Joseph Zaretski - of Manhattan said Tuesday he was "unalterably opposed" to September primary.

"We fought for the June primary and we should keep it," he said.

Assemblyman Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn said he saw no reason to change to September, "especially since we will have to have a June primary next year for the presidential election.

The League of Women Voters also came out against the proposed change, saying it lacked justification.

Mrs. George J. Ames, state president of the civic organization, said that "an early fall primary benefits no one but incumbents and regular party candidates" while many voters would be vacationing when nominating petitions are distributed during the summer.

Supporters of the later date reportedly believe added time will be needed to complete the reapportionment required by the 1970 cenusus.

Assemblyman Stephen J. Solarz, D-Brooklyn, said the September date would make "a mockery of the political process" because thousands of New Yorkers on summer vacation would be denied an opportunity to inform themselves about the candidates.

Student Association Takes Case to Supreme Court

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The Student Association of the State University (SASU) is seeking to have a federal court strike down as unconstitutional the regulations adopted by the State University for maintaining order on its campuses.

A lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn Tuesday names as defendants the SUNY Board of Trustees and Dr. John Toll, president of the State University Center at Stony Brook, on Long Island.

Richard A. Lippe, a lawyer who represents the student organization, told a news conference here that the regulations violate due process provisions of the U.S. and State Constitutions.

The board approved the rules in 1969 to comply with the so-called Henderson Law aimed at getting all colleges and universities in New York State to spell out the actions they would take to deal with disturbances on their campus.

Lippe told reporters he was not seeking to have the statute overturned. Instead, he said, the purpose was to invalidate some provisions in the SUNY rules, sometimes referred to by students as the "battle plan" for coping with dissent.

Lippe cited specifically the sections that he said permit the temporary suspension of a student prior to a hearing; neglect to set a standard to guide hearing boards; make SUNY presidents both "prosecutor and judge;" and provide that failure of a student to appear before a hearing board is construed as an admission of the facts stated in charges against that student.

The lawsuit, in addition to seeking to have SUNY's rules for 32 state - operated campuses declared unconstitutional, requests a permanent injunction against their enforcement.

The law was sponsored primarily by Republican Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson of Hornell. Under its terms, any institution of higher learning that did not submit rules providing for the maintenance of order risked losing state financial assistance. The State University, a publiciy supported system, was not the main target at the time. But its trustees complied and filed regulations applicable to 32 campuses, setting the stage for the challenge by the student group.

Scuffle in Courtroom

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) —Two Auburn prison inmates were forcibly removed from the courtroom Tuesday after they and four others were arraigned on charges stemming from a grand jury probe into a disturbance at the prison last November.

Robert Clark, 24, and Charles Hill, 27, both of New York City, were arraigned on charges of second degree assault, second degree attempted assault and first degree robbery.

Witnesses said the two scuffled with correction officers after their arraignments as the officers tried to handcuff them for the return trip from the courtroom to the state operated, maximum security prison.

Witnesses told of how five guards managed to subdue the pair and that one of the two inmates shouted an obscenity at Cayuga County Judge Gerald Saperstein before leaving the room.

The robbery charges stemmed from the alleged theft of keys from 35 guards that inmates held hostage during the disturbance at Auburn Correctional Facility Nov. 4. Six guards were injured as more than 400 inmates controlled a major portion of the prison for nearly seven hours.

Michael Lewis, 23, and Russell Prout, 21, both of Brooklyn, also charged with assault, attempted assault and robbery, were arraigned later in a seperate court appearance. Their handcuffs were not removed.

Two other prisoners also were arraigned, one of whom claimed his life had been threatened and asked the judge not to return him to the state institution.

Earl Moody, 25, of New York, charged with third degree robbery, did not elaborate on the alleged threat. He was denied his request by the judge and returned to the prison to await further court appearances.

Harold Johnson, 25, of Brooklyn, charged with second degree assault, asked that he be allowed to defend himself in his trial.

All the charges are based on indictments handed up recently by a Cayuga County grand jury. No pleas were entered Tuesday and proceedings were adjourned until Feb. 9.

Oil Representatives Confer After Price Talks Fail

TEHRAN (AP) — Representatives of 10 oil producing nations met today following collapse of price negotiations with the major Western oil companies. Conference sources said the meeting would probably recommend that the producers follow Venezuela's lead and adopt legislation decreeing the price rises the companies have refused to concede.

A shutdown of oil supplies for Western Europe would be resorted to only if the companies refused to comply with new payment schedules promulgated under the legislation, the sources predicted.

Venezuela recently adopted a bill providing for an increase of taxes on oil company income to 60 per cent, an increase of royalties to 16 2-3 per cent and the authority for unilateral increases of base prices on which the taxes and royalties are figured.

The meeting today brought together representatives of the 10 nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries: Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Abu Dhabu, Qatar, Libya, Algeria Venezuela and Indonesia. They supply almost all of the oil used by Western Europe and Japan.

The OPEC conference was called to hear a report on the breakdown Tuesday night of price negotiations between 22 international oil companies and the six producing nations of the Persian Gulf.

Similar negotiations with Libya failed earlier.

Venezuelan Oil Minister Hugo Perez Salzia said that while the oil nations would be firm, they also would be "reasonable and conscious of our responsibilities." He said he was sure the conference would demonstrate their "unshakable unity and determination."

Jamshid Amuzegar, Iran's finance minister, told a news conference the breakdown in the price talks was the fault of the oil companies. Lord Strathalmond of British Petroleum, who led the company team, said progress was being made "but time was against us."

The companies made a new offer Tuesday, reportedly bettering the 20 cents a barrel increase in base price which the Persian Gulf States rejected on Monday. But conference sources said a gap of about 10 cents per barrel separated what was being offered and what was being asked.

Despite the breakdown, the company negotiators announced they would remain in Tehran for the time being, "at the disposal" of the Persian Gulf ministers.

'Squeaky' Unfolds Inside Picture of the Manson Clan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A bright-eyed admirer whom Charles Manson nicknamed "Squeaky," has unfolded for the Sharon Tate murder trial jury its first inside picture of Manson's hippie-style clan, its genesis and wanderings.

"Manson was never our leader," insisted red-haired Lynette Fromme, 22, an original and still loyal member of the "family," disputing state claims that Manson held dictatorial power over followers.

"He would follow us," she said. "All he had to do in the whole world was see what we wanted and needed. He really cared for us."

Miss Fromme, thin and freckle faced, vividly described the Manson family travels in an old schoolbus, picking up runaway teen-agers along the way.

"We were riding on the wind," she said.

Miss Fromme, who camped outside the Hall of Justice during much of the seven-month old trial, was brought to court from jail to be a defense witness. She was arrested in December and charged with conspiring to murder a former family member who, authorities said, was gven an LSD-spiked hamburger to prevent her from testifying against Manson. The girl recovered and testified.

Miss Fromme's testimony at the trial's penalty phase was part of the defense effort to persuade jurors to decree life imprisonment instead of execution for Manson and three women followers convicted last week of murder-conspiracy in the seven 1969 killings.

Miss Fromme, daughter of an aeronautical engineer, said she grew up in a "typical middle-class home" near Los Angeles, quarreled with her family and was "kicked out" at 18. She said Manson found her near the beach in 1967.

She said he asked her to join him, and, "no one had ever treated me like that before, not pushed me around, so I just picked up all my things and went."

Another girl joined them in an old car and they headed for San Francisco's Haight Ashbury hippie district. Soon others wanted to join and they switched to an ancient schoolbus which someone had given to Manson. In Haight Ashbury, she said, they watched the hippie culture "grow and die, watched it get dirty."

They pulled out and traveled the coastline, picking up youngsters with no place to go. "We'd meet kids begging on the streets. All they wanted was to get away from one kind of life that was beating them around."

In Southern California they found defendant Patricia Krenwinkel, now 23, who told them she was fed up with the drudgery of work in an insurance agency.

"She was looking, like all kids are, looking for something that was real and the truth," Miss Fromme recalled. "She was looking for peace and someone to love her ... She could see there was a way out of it, and we just left, that's all."

On the road again, they returned to Haight Ashbury and encountered defendant Susan Atkins, now 22, in a commune. The Manson group smoked marijuana with her and Miss Atkins asked to come along.

Miss Fromme didn't say how defendant Leslie Van Houten joined the group, but by the time the bus made its last journey to Southern California Leslie was a traveler. By then there were about 25, mostly women, who felt "for the first time we were all living."

They met the owner of a one-time movie location, the Spahn Ranch, and he let them move in. The women did chores to earn their keep.

The state says it was from there Manson sent his co-defendants out on murder missions in August 1969.

Under questioning by Paul Fitzgerald, the chief defense lawyer, Miss Fromme said all women in the group loved Manson who "sings as though it would make you want to sing ... We loved love."

Manson, she said, taught them a new life style which included polygamous sex, a difficult adaptation for the women. "We were used to having a man all to ourselves. There was competition, oh yeah, we had blankets going back and forth."

But they learned to share Manson and looked on him, she said, as "a father who knew that it was good to make love."

Making love with Manson, she felt "guiltless, like being a baby."

What was his attraction?

"Charlie is man," she said, "and we were all looking for a man who would be at our feet with his life but wouldn't let us step on him ... We love man, and that's woman's life, that's the key."

How long would she be true to Manson? "Forever."

India Retaliates, Bans Pakis Flights

NEW DELHI (AP) — India today banned flights by Pakistani military planes over its territory in retaliation for the destruction of an Indian airliner by Kashmiri hijackers in West Pakistan.

Pakistan's Foreign Office deplored the firingof the $1.14 million aircraft at Lahore airport Tuesday night as it was negotiating for its release and return to India.

India claimed Pakistan's military government could have prevented the destruction of the Fokker Friendship F27, which two young Kashmiris diverted to Lahore Saturday from a domestic flight over Kashmir. The other 26 passengers and four crew members returned to India by road Monday.

The incident triggered a new crisis in relations between India and Pakistan, which have fought two wars over Kashmir. The ban on Pakistani military flights further isolates the two parts of Pakistan, separated by 1,000 miles of Indian territory, but apparently civilian aircraft were not affected.

The hijackers, who occupied the plane until they destroyed it with incendiary devices, had said they would blow it up if the Indian government did not release 36 imprisoned Kashmiri "freedom fighters."

Maqbool Ahmed Butt, blackbereted leader of the Kashmiri Liberation Front, said the hijackers "had no alternative" because the Pakistanis planned to remove them from the plane Monday night.

Butt, who flew to Lahore over the weekend to advise the hijackers, identified them as Ashraf Qureshi, 21, and Mohammed Hashem, 20. He said they jumped from the plane after the flames took hold.

Both were under guard in a military hospital in Lahore. Qureshi was seriously injured in the blast and was being given oxygen, Butt said. He said the other youth suffered minor injuries.

The OAS Moves on Envoys

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Organization of American States has taken a first step toward providing hemispheric cooperation to protect diplomats against terrorists and kidnapers.

By a vote of 13 to 1 with two abstentions, OAS foreign ministers approved Tuesday night an agreement denying asylum to and providing for extradition of persons sought in the murder kidnap or assault of foreign officials.

But the consensus among diplomats here is that the agreement, or convention, in itself, will not provide much relief against a continuation of the wave of assaults on diplomatic officials over the past 17 months.

There have been 12 kidnapings for ransom in that period, and security measures in some capitals are such that embassies virtually have become fortresses.

Even if the convention is ratified by the 13 nations who supported it Tuesday night, diplomats noted, there would still be more than 100 countries which conceivably could provide a haven for terrorists.

Diplomats were viewing the convention as an initial effort in what they hoped would be a worldwide movement to make a crime against a diplomat an international felony.

A provision was written into the convention allowing any member of the United Nations to join the accord.

But this did not appear a realistic hope in view of broad divisions within the hemispheric community itself.

These nations had pushed for a convention which would make politically motivated terrorism of all kinds a crime anywhere in the hemisphere.

Also in disagreement—for much different reasons—were the three countries that have drifted steadily leftward in recent years—Peru, Chile and Bolivia.

On the final motion, Peru and Bolivia abstained and Chile cast the lone negative vote. But all were generally in agreement that any convention on terrorism would infringe on sovereignty.

Managing Editor's Notebook

P. BARRECCHIA

Thank God most Americans have not reached the point where they have become too jaded to have generated a little inner excitement by such projects as the Apollo space shots.

Apollo 14, the latest in the series, rocketed off for the moon last Sunday, and at least in this viewer's eyes all of the thrill and the challenge were still there just as it was back in 1961 when Alan Shepard sailed spaceward for 300 miles down the Caribbean slot.

Now two other astronauts and Shepard are soaring toward the moon to become the third team of Americans to land on that foreboding, austere planet. And when they get there (Lord willing) they will plant a small American Flag into the rocky soil.

And truthfully, the old jingoistic heart that beats within this ink-stained breast is going to go jingo-jingo a little faster, even though it is unfashionable to admit to such elemental emotions in this sophisticated day and age.

It truly boggles the mind to think of rocketing that miniscule spacecraft across more than 250,000 miles of hostile atmosphere to a pinpoint landing in the mountainous Fra Mauro region of the moon. The moon—gazed at for centuries longingly, lovingly, fearfully—now again touched upon for the third time.

And then it will again be interesting to hear the detractors of this event as they create their usual furor in the press and over television.

Guaranteed to be said by the congressman from Manhattan, "The money should have gone to the poor people."; by the California college student, "Where are our priorities?"; by the concerned clergy, "Stop the war"; by the harried housewife, "Meat prices should stay so low."

Listening to these sentiments leaves us asking ourselves what would have happened if Queen Isabella had said to Columbus: "Get lost you Italian troublemaker. We're giving the money to the Basques."

Or if Jefferson had said to Lewis and Clark. "Who needs the Northwest Passage. We're building a major teepee project at Little Big Horn."

Or if Orville and Wilbur were told to stop their foolishness and get back to the bicycle store.

Perhaps there's a point in belittling space flights but the flights themselves have their points in scientific achievement, national prestige and the feeling of a "giant step for all mankind" as voiced by Neil Armstrong

New Money for Kingston

Editor, The Freeman,

A mining engineer with the Bureau of Mines, College Park, Maryland, named Max Spendlove, has devised a method of waste recycling that makes money. A city can build a garbage recycling plant and have it pay not only for itself but for garbage collection too, and still show a profit.

Too amazing? Why hasn't this become more well known? He's just finished his metal and glass remover and is just starting on a paper recycler. Its a brand new development and Kingston can cash in on it.

Imagine, towns, counties and cities in the Hudson Valley are begging for places to bury their refuse. Suddenly Kingston would want it all because Kingston could make a profit from it!

Recycling helps ecological balance two ways. It would stop the overwhelming flood of refuse that now threatens to bury us, and we wouldn't have to keep mining the diminishing supply of minerals that is now just buried as waste. Kingston, Hudson Valley's Ecological Capital. Can Max Spendlove's Trash Machine turn "urban ore" into riches and progress for Kingston?

The Volpes' Trip

Editor, The Freeman:

I wish to call attention to an article that appeared in The Freeman a few nights ago. Said article told of Secretary of Transportation John Volpe and his wife recently having flown around the world in a sleek, white Coast Guard jet. Stopping at Vienna, New Delhi, Bangkok, Manila, Hawaii, etc. Estimated cost to the taxpayers $29,360. If they had traveled first class on a commercial plane it would have cost about $2,616 apiece.

The Coast Guard plane which served as their plush private plane on the trip was purchased for $2.9 million in 1968. It's caysets and cushioned interior cost the taxpayers an additional $204,029.

A spokesman said the Volpes made the trip to confer with foreign officials "on transportation and other problems of international concern." And these birds in office have the gall to sock it to the taxpayers. I think they should be kicked out of office every time they pull some boondoggle like Volpe did—and every time they open their mouths about raising taxes.

On Sam N. Mann

Editor, The Freeman:

Sam N. Mann passed away 25 January 1971. To the younger people living in Kingston his name may not register. To the middleage and senior citizens his is a well respected and revered name.

Sam N. Mann possessed certain characteristics that set him above the ordinary everyday individual. He was a man of complete honesty, good reputation, kindness and charitableness, and steady in affection and loyality.

Sam N. Mann was a typically excellent citizen, a good husband, a good father, an excellent uncle to all his nieces and nephews, and he believed in and practiced his religious faith.

He met his community responsibilities by serving as an Alderman in Kingston during the late 20's and early 30's. He later heard the call of community service and served his fellow Kingstonians in the City Tax Office in the mid 60's.

In the Hebrew religion there are three Commands: To do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly before God. Sam N. Mann lived by those Commands.

His unbiased opinion, his mature judgement, and his enlightened conscience has left a void in our lives. A little bit of Kingston died with Sam N. Mann and when the bells tolled for him, it tolled for all. He will always walk among us in spirit and inspiring us daily with his honesty, his courage and his spirit.

Very truly your,

New Taxbite

Editor, The Freeman:

Ho hum, time for the annual State Tax increase again. Of course it's a little larger than usual this year, but never mind — any politician worth his salt, nowadays, knows that he need pay scant attention to taxpayer's interests. We may presume that things will be no different this year. Or perhaps we can indulge a fancy, and hope that maybe, just maybe, this is the year the great slumbering beast, representing the taxpayers, will rise up and throw off the bonds of tyranny.

I submit that Gov. Slippery Rocky, who is orchestrating the whole incredible State fiscal mess, is a complete incompetent, and should be impeached. His only qualification for office is a propensity to spend other people's money. It would seem that he never learned to economize and live within a budget, as those of us who inherited less wealth are required to do.

How much longer are the taxpayers of this State going to take it lying down.

Yours for a new governor,
A.J. BOWEN

Abolition

Editor, The Freeman

At a time in our Community when the ugly possiblity of meting out the death penalty as a sentence in a recent murder trial presents itself, we wish to remind those concerned of actions taken in 1958 by the chief legislative body of our National Episcopal Church with further endorsement of that action by the 1960 Convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New York URGING THE ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Migrant Workers

Editor, The Freeman:

The following replies to a recent letter urging American housewives to boycott grocery stores whose packaged fruit does not contain a union label.

One very salient point the lady neglected to mention was the union "organizer" of the migrant workers. His name is Cesar Chavez. The boycott was his idea to 'force" Fruit Companies and their employees to join his union. The national Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation has written about the great number of migrant workers who are being intimidated by Cesar Chavez and his strong arm tactics and have appealed to this Foundatjon for legal assistance in their plight.

I support the right of a worker to join or not to join a union. If a worker does not choose to belong to a union, the decision is entirely his own choice and every citizen has that Constitutional right as guaranteed by the First Amendment.

Let us suppose Cesar Chavez wins in his attempt at unionization. Who suffers whenever unions go on strike? Yes — the consumer. Demanding a union label in your grocery store now means next year there may not be any fruit at all while "negotiations" are being carried on.

Before urging unionization, someone should ask Mr. Chavez what he plans to do with the compulsory "dues" he expects to collect; and how many heads of lettuce he thinks his workers will be able to pick in one day.

This is one housewife who has been inconvenienced by too many strikes in the past and would like to avoid as many recurrences as possible.

Rocky's Taxes

Editor, The Freeman

I hope you can find space in your "Letter to the Editor" column for this letter, as I think it is very important to all Senior Citizens.

All Senior Citizens 65 years and older, with incomes of $5,000.00 or less, beware of Gov. Rockefeller's new tax bill for it will vastly effect your pocketbook.

If you own and drive an automobile both your fees for registration and operators licenses will be increased by one-third, you will also pay a higher sales tax and another penny per gallon on gasoline.

The taxes we are already paying are a hardship and we can little afford any more.

Arise up, write Senator Jay P. Rolison, Jr. and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, both at the State Capitol Building, Albany, N.Y. 12224 and vigorously protest any tax increase.

We Senior Citizens will continue to take it on the chin unless we make known our feelings. We should not be subject to any tax increases, in fact we should be exempt from all sales taxes.

Don't wait, write today and state loud and clear your feelings It's time we made them known.

Freeman Helps

Editor, The Freeman:

Thank you so very much for printing my appeal (Jan. 7) it has made so many people aware of our great need for dialysis equipment. The Ntl. Kidney Foundation, sponser of this drive, claims 100,000 people in U.S. require dialysis, 50,000 die each year from kidney failure. We hope to eliminate this, in our area, by setting up a Kidney Clinic, in N.Y.S., simular to one set up in Michigan two years ago. The Mich. Clinic has secured six units in two years, by these Betty Crocker Coupon Drives. We had hoped to do the same here but Gen. Mills has recently changed its policy and will no longer make possible redemption for any life-saving devices, after May. So that only gives us three months to collect our 600,000 Betty Crocker Coupons. We have no where near that amount now. It's an almost impossible mission, but we'll sure try!

Due to the Freeman appeal, I have received over 25,000 coupons, since Jan. 9. I never could have done this alone. Thank you to all the donors who sent in any amount of B. C. coupons, we may accept all, regardless of age. My oldest ones received to date, expired in 1949.

In the Red Hook area there are deposit boxes in A&P, Grand Union. Or they may be given to Mrs. Philip Marsh, 19 Trow Blvd., a collection volunteer due to the Freeman also.

Anyone interested in placing boxes in their community, please contact me. May is not far off and it's a big task to do alone!

Highland residents can contact Brownie Troop 189, these little girls are doing a marvelous job over there with 230 turned in the first week. God Bless them and all the people who are aiding by telling friends.

Anyone wishing to donate, please get the coupons to me by end of May. Thank you all so much for your support, we had no idea this cut-off would hit!

Connally Approved For Treasury Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally Jr., nominated to be secretary of the Treasury, has won a clean bill of health from the Senate Finance Committee on his dealings with the estate of wealthy oilman Sid Richardson.

The committee, by a 13-0 vote, approved Connally's nomination Tuesday after a two-hour public hearing he had requested to explain his role in administering the Richardson estate.

Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the committee, indicates he wants the Senate to consider Connally's nomination Friday. But a vote may be delayed until next week because of the request by Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., to see agreements under which Connally accepted $750,000 from the Richardson estate.

Harris was the only committee member to question Connally in depth about the fees and the agreement under which Connally had accepted them on a delayed basis while governor.

Connally stressed he had violated no Texas laws by accepting the deferred payments, because the money was for services performed before he took office.

Harris' questions indicated he wants to determine whether Connally, a former secretary of the Navy, opted to defer payment of the $750,000 beyond time allowed under tax regulations.

As secretary of the Treasury, Connally would be the only Democrat in the Nixon Cabinet, succeeding David M. Kennedy who will become an ambassador at-large.

Three Injured, Driver Cited

CATSKILL

Three persons were injured and a motorist was cited for driving while intoxicated as the result of a two-car headon collision that occurred at 9:45 p. m. Tuesday on Route 9W in Coxsackie.

Leeds State Police reported the vehicles were operated by Hiromi Bibza, 25, of 140 Jefferson Heights, Catskill, and Sumner Oldham, 32, of Earlton. Oldham was cited for drunken driving. He also faces charges of failure to keep to the right and unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle, troopers said.

The woman's vehicle was northbound and Oldham was driving in the opposite direction when his car reportedly crossed into the northbound lane and the crash resulted.

The Catskill woman sustained lacerations and a broken nose and left wrist. She was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital. Oldham was removed to Albany Medical Center Hospital suffering severe lacerations. Also injured and taken to the upstate hospital was a passenger in the Bibza car, Sandra Wanchik, 22, of 11 New Street, Catskill, who suffered severe facial lacerations and other injuries.

Bodies Found In Garage

STILLWATER, N. Y. (AP) — The bodies of three Round Lake residents, apparent victims of carbon monoxide, were found Tuesday night in a garage in the Town of Stillwater, southeast of Saratoga Springs.

Delbert Whitney, according to State Police, said he discovered William Tudor, 29, Elizabeth Mead, 28, and her son Mark Mead, 4, in his garage where a truck had been running.

Why Congress Opposes

Enough of the vocal opposition to President Nixon's bold proposals for government restructioning and revenue-sharing has surfaced that one can get a good idea of its source and cause. It cannot be said to be wholly ideological, because both liberals and conservatives are found in the opposition. Nor is it wholly partisan, because the opposition cuts across party lines—for instance, both Chairman Wilbur Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee and the ranking member, John W. Byrnes, teamed against them.

The opposition runs deeper. It makes plain Mr. Nixon's claim that, in his words, his proposals are "by far the most comprehensive, the most far-reaching, the most bold program in the domestic field ever presented to an American Congress." This is such a sweeping claim that it is worth examining closely.

The last 40 years have seen tremendous changes in the federal structure, but largely they have been additions that sought to solve problems as reflected in the latest three departments—Health, Education and Welfare, Housing and Urban Development and Transportation. They left unassimilated many bureaus and offices in other departments and agencies devoted to these interests. They were functional only on the surface. Mr. Nixon wants to recast the domestic departments wholly on functional lines, gathering together all bureaus and offices relating to the functions concerned. That is too sweeping a change—and too sufficient, it should be added—to please the special interest bureaucracies and lobbies, to say nothing of Congress, itself.

The same may be said of the just as controversial revenue-sharing proposal. Mills and Byrnes, after being invited to a heart-to-heart talk with the President, agreed to hold hearings, "not to promote the plan but to kill it." The President countered by announcing a trans-continental speaking tour to arouse backing for the plan to save cities and states from imminent bankruptcy. Ironically, he will have opposition from some states which fear they will get less than they now get from the federal treasury indirect in grants.

Except for the Family Assistance Plan, which is given a chance of passage in this Congress, the struggle for these bold proposals will build issues for solution by the voters in 1972. The present debate will clarify them but will not solve them.

Back to Normal 6%

Nothing like it had ever happened before. Twice in two successive business days, the prime lending rate had been reduced. It was the culmination of a trend that began last March 25, when the rate retreated from its all time record high of 8½ per cent. Then, from Nov. 12 on, there were six more quick reductions until the rate was back to normal at 6 per cent January 18.

While this is the rate charged biggest corporate customers, it has been reflected in other lending shortly thereafter. There is every possibility and hope now that the new rate will be extended to all good risks from here on. In Washington, the White House said it hoped this "easing of credit will also be reflected in the mortgage industry." For that would give home building a big boost just when it begins to appear that a building boom is on the way.

The cuts in the prime rate have resulted from a persistent lack of demand for credit from the country's large businesses. Maybe they will respond now to the new low rate. Whether they do or not, once the new rate is extended to all comers, things should begin to hum. The ordinary householder has been putting off his purchases until lending rates are easier.

The Hand that Feeds Him

David Lawrence Says
Economic Stability Is Elusive In This Era of Inflation

WASHINGTON, — At last after much discussion about President Nixon's messages and the report of his economic advisers, there has emerged a kind of consensus — namely, that 1971 will be "a better year" than 1970 and that 1972 will be a "good year." No longer is it being predicted that "full employment" will be accomplished in two years but merely that the jobless rate will be cut by mid-1972 to 4.5 per cent, as contrasted with today's rate of 6 per cent. This is only another way of saying that complete recovery should not be expected in the next two years though conditions will be much more satisfactory than they have been.

The President, moreover, declares that inflation has slowed and that it will continue to do so. He adds:

"Much of the anti-inflationary effect of the 1970 slowdown still has to be felt, and if the expansion is properly controlled in 1971, the conditions for further slackening of the inflation rate will remain."

What this implies is that the principal problem is still inflation and that full employment will be restored when price stability has been attained. Mr. Nixon is confident that inflation will be substantially reduced though not altogether wiped out in 1972. The rate of 3 per cent, which he hopes to achieve, would be well below what was recorded in 1970.

The big question, of course, is whether the administration will effectively exercise some sort of influence in the controversies over wages and prices. There is a reluctance on the part of the President to apply any general rule to all of industry, but he is moving toward participation in conferences with major industries. His theory is that if wages are voluntarily held down and prices are also kept at lower levels than might otherwise be fixed during the current recession, a better attitude in the business world would prevail. Mr. Nixon plans an appeal to labor leaders and business management, and in the next few months measures of restraint will be sought in conspicuous bases. The President, however, is still opposed to any "mandatory" controls over wages and prices.

The figures on federal revenues in the new budget are based on a 9 per cent growth in the gross national product in the coming year. Business will proceed with expansion programs in 1971 and 1972 because of the stimulus given by the large spending to be done by the government.

The fact that the President has seemingly revised his views somewhat as to the extent of the recovery in the years 1971 and 1972 will be widely noted, but it is not surprising. Most observers with an economic background did not expect total recovery by the end of 1972. They have felt that if in the next year and a half the economy is given a chance to move forward, sufficient improvement will be made to produce a wave of confidence and a belief that readjustment has actually been started.

As yet, there are no signs of any real curb on inflation. When this happens, a pick-up in consumer sales and in many other lines of business will become apparent.

The President's prediction that by mid-1972 the economy will have made substantial progress will be widely accepted. This does not, however, mean that the recovery period will be complete, as it may take another year or more to get a full-employment economy and a lower rate of inflation.

Some of the critics fear that inflation will not be slowed down as long as higher prices and higher wages are not restrained by government action. The administration is relying on increased business activity and an enlarged demand for goods to bring about a better and better economic situation throughout the country. But it is agreed on every side that it is much too early to forecast the trends that will appear a year hence.

One thing is clear. The politicians may argue that the big deficits are bound to result eventually in higher taxes, but, for the time being, the tendency on Capitol Hill is to make sure that every district and state gets its share of any revenues that are made available.

What is most important at the moment is to put the country into a condition of prosperity, and that's the goal of every administration.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Fifteen years ago, a Pullman porter named Ed Nixon organized The Montgomery Improvement Association (MIA) in Montgomery, Ala. He did it as a protest against the arrest of a black seamstress, Mrs. Rosa Parks, for daring to sit in the white section of the bus.

She said her feet hurt. Nixon had to board an outbound train on the day officers were selected for the MIA bus boycott, so a 27-year-old minister, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was elected president. The struggle for racial equality began on that bus, that day so long ago.

What are the achievements? I went to Montgomery to ask. The pale breasted dome of the capitol still flies the stars and bars of the Confederacy. Doctor King's paneled study is still in the basement of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church. He isn't there.

The MIA is a phone number in the phone directory. Call it and a woman's voice answers. "MIA. Sorry, my husband isn't home now." Whoever he is, he is what is left of the organization. Ed Nixon quit after the first year because he said that MIA refused to account for $225,000 it had received in donations.

The blacks ride the front of the buses now. Long ago, Rosa Parks took her tired feet elsewhere. The Negroes in Montgomery, except for bus riding, still live in the same clapboard shanties, still step aside for a white man on a sidewalk. Progress?

King coupled his great intellectuality with his great ego and proved that nonviolence, as a Gandhian concept, is a powerful weapon. But every place he went — Birmingham; Selma; Albany, Georgia; Chicago — violence churned in his wake. Store windows tinkled, fires were started, shops were looted, looters were shot.

The only reason he returned to Memphis was because he had led a violent march, and King wanted to prove he could lead a nonviolent one.

A witless white in a window waited. And that was the end of Doctor King. There was an end to Malcolm X too. He believed in Elijah Muhammad and a Muslim nation. He believed until he went to Mecca and found that the Black Muslims of America had no relation whatever to the faith practiced by Arabs. He came back a heretic; he had to go.

Floyd McKissick was a loud man too. And Eldridge Cleaver, whose Panthers celebrated the death of Doctor King with a booze party in Okland, Calif. "I thought we'd never get rid of him so easy," one man said.

Cassius Clay is a Muslim. Angelo Dundee, his manager, is now his trainer. Muhammad Ali's manager of record is one of Elijah Muhammad's sons. How can you suspend a man for fighting, and take a percentage of his earnings as a fighter?

In Atlanta, I talked to Dr. Ralph Abernathy, the chubby successor to King. There, in a small neat office, he runs the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. When did we last hear of the SCLC? Two years ago? More? What is it now?

The White Supremacy Councils and the Ku Klux Klan were potent race rattlers 15 years ago. They fought to keep the Negro "in his place." In 1956, a motorcade of 40 Klan Kars ran through the ghettoes of Montgomery to scare the blacks. The people stood on their porches and laughed.

End of Klan. End of Councils. End of MIA. The one living breathing organization left is the old National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. It does not sponsor Poor People's Marches. Its members bring their cases to the Supreme Court, and to the President and the Congress.

They fight with lawyers. And they win. If Doctor King failed — and he was the mildest of the protesters — it is because he truly believed that "we can match your ability to inflict pain by our ability to withstand it."

He turned the other cheek too often. In Harlem, blacks pelted his car with eggs; and a deranged Negro woman stabbed him. He thought he was wise enough to control the radicals in his entourage, and they thought they were smart enough to "use" King. All the other militants have labored to separate the races, to polarize them.

The wolves have undone the work of the lamb. They called him "Uncle Tom" and said he tried to dress and think and be a white man. He didn't. He had an innocent illusion that, if all the children got together, they would find themselves laughing at the same things, weeping at the same things, and bleeding red when cut.

The whites didn't want to listen. Millions of blacks refused to listen. Fifteen years after Rosa Parks' tired feet, the races are further apart. And both sides are tired of being tired...

Jack Anderson Says
Hooked GIs Sell Information For Drugs in Okinawa City

WASHINGTON — Our report that GIs in Asia are trading military secrets for marijuana and heroin has kicked up a storm.

Inside the Pentagon, the generals are in a lather. Parents have written us troubled letters. And Dick Cavett, the midnight moderator, has raised questions about the story on his network TV show.

Here are additional details:

On Okinawa, drug-craving GIs sell military information that is flashed to the North Vietnamese from a Russian trawler in the China Sea.

Some of those who peddle the information — which includes the exact times of scheduled U.S. bombing raids on the Ho Chi Minh trails — are assigned to America's super-secret Torii station on Okinawa.

This is a communications installation which monitors radio broadcasts originating in Red China and handles other secret communications. Some of the men assigned there have access to coded messages.

Other servicemen have smuggled out the bombing raid schedules and Marine operational plans.

They frequent the dingy backroom bar in a spot called the Tokyo club in the Okinawan town of Koza City. There they pass the time with pretty bar girls on the communist payroll. The girls obtain vital information from them in exchange for "stashes" of marijuana which may be worth as little as $10, or for more costly caps of heroin.

The secrets are then relayed by clandestine radio from a seedy two-story hotel in the same block as the Tokyo Club to a Soviet trawler off the Okinawan coast.

The Pentagon has received detailed intelligence reports on this spy operation. Army investigators have actually watched the trawler off Okinawa's Minitagouwa Point through zoom camera lens.

The investigators have seen narrow, one-man fishing boats paddle out to the trawler when radio contact was impossible. They have identified a man named Igichi Matousawon as the most redoubtable of the fishermen who ferry the military secrets to the sleek Soviet trawler.

The Pentagon also has learned that a certain Hichi Higa, who hails from the Okinawan town of Nago, is one of the biggest operators in the espionage-and-drug racket.

Despite the documented information, however, the military brass have been extremely reluctant to act — even though the leak has enabled the North Vietnamese repeatedly to prepare for U.S. offensives and to move their trucks off the Ho Chi Minh trails before the B-52 bombers arrive.

A military crackdown and court martial, the brass hats apparently feel, would be an open admission that U.S. military intelligence on Okinawa is as chock-full of holes as a coral reef. They are also reluctant to move against the Okinawans for spying for fear of touching off a wave of anti-American rioting.

The far-flung Health, Education, and Welfare Department, which runs a $38 million nationwide string of child care centers, has bungled a $150,000 child care center for its own employees' children.

The mothers of HEW have clucked for years over the Labor Department's efficiently run center for pre-kindergarten children. At last, in June, HEW signed a contract for one at HEW.

The plan: mothers would pay fees and the government would use the center to improve its world-wide chain. The routine would be park the car, drop off the child, put in a day at the office, pick up the child.

But the scheduled opening date passed with no sign of a center. The mothers banded together and demanded action. They found that HEW had goofed by first selecting a contractor, Thiokol Chemical Corp., to set up the center, then deciding that HEW would do it.

Then the ladies discovered that HEW had no site for the center. Eventually, HEW found a site in a crime-infested slum which the mothers turned down flatly, then another miles away at the Army's Fort Lesley McNair in a "temporary building." The weary mothers agreed in return for a promised relocation later at the HEW building.

Now there are delays in arranging the temporary building. Meanwhile, the $150,000 allocation has dwindled from salaries and expenses.

Some of the mothers who have worked hardest to get the center have watched their children grow too old to attend it. An embarrassed spokesman at HEW said he "hoped" the project was now well on its way.

Mayor's Hijinks

The merry Mayor of Tucson, who made headlines with his hijinks in Washington last year (he got drunk, got robbed, and bit a young girl on the leg), is now showing off his stuff for the homefolks.

Mayor Jim Corbett, a handsome family man of 46, was spotted the other night in a Tucson night club called "The He and She Scene" working out on the dance floor with a barefoot blonde in a colorful kimono.

Next thing you know, Corbett seized the microphone and began an obscenity-studded defense of his famous junket to Washington. Those who saw him said he was wobbly and reeked of booze.

Corbett also had some hard — and dirty — words for the press. Having uttered these, and with the audience suitably warmed up, he announced for re-election.

Henry J. Taylor Says
Unemployment Is a Worry

White House worrybirds are telling President Nixon he cannot expect a substantial unemployment drop before the 1972 election campaign. Recovery plans (and public impressions) notwithstanding, he would have to begin campaigning while unemployment remains to clout him.

The worrybirds' reasons are sound — if surprising.

The breadwinner's pay envelope is the most important thing in almost every family. Any man, who really wants work and must support his family and cannot find work, has a problem and a heartbeat that shakes him like a rabbit in the jaws of a dog.

About six per cent of the labor force is jobless. Yet, blessings be, even this is more sunlit than we may think, although it is cold comfort to the man who lost his job.

Unemployment — even at December's six per cent, the highest monthly level in nine years — is substantially less than in most previous recessions. We had more people at work than ever before — around 80 million. Nearly 60 per cent are in service industries rather than production industries. And the service industries have suffered least. The military has been turning back into civilian life more than a million men a year. Yet we still have about twice — yes, twice — as many people earning at two jobs (moonlighting) as are not working.

The average worker's age is 29, the lowest in 43 years. By the 1972 election the country's median age will be 26 or 27. There will be nearly twice as many women in their 20s as when President Nixon was first elected. And our youth have been getting married earlier than ever before. But this is making the unemployment impact on the family (and the economy) widely misunderstood.

The average family now has 3.71 persons. However, for the first time in history we've had more working wives than single girls. Working wives now constitute one-fifth of our entire work force. And the effect within the household (or on the economy) when a working wife loses her job, or quits, is very different from what it is when the family breadwinner becomes jobless. In fact, countless working wives are in the labor force for reasons other than the earnings. This fact obscures the consequences of statistics.

But now comes the rub, foreseen by the White House worrybirds, for 1972.

Even if December proves the low mark of the recession, they would be immensely surprised if this also substantially reduced the unemployment. "Privately," one told me, "we can't see this lift for the President clearly." For joblessness normally goes up — not down — after the turn in the recession.

They spoke of the 1960-61 recession, which carried a political menace like a midnight witch riding her fiery broomstick. It hit bottom in February, 1961. Unemployment stood at 6.9 per cent. As late as May, 1961, it was up — not down — to 7.1 per cent. In July, five months after the recovery started, unemployment clung at seven per cent, still higher than at the recession's bottom. The time lag can be long and politically merciless.

This worrying citation is the unemployment pattern, not the exception. At the end of both the 1953-54 and 1957-58 recessions, unemployment was higher after these recessions than during them. You have to go all the way back to the 1948-49 recession, and look at 27 distinct recoveries, to find a recession bottom and a high in joblessness at the same time.

What happens? A combination of things. Businesses usually continue to reduce capital expenditures for equipment, factories, etc., a big factor in employment, and cut other costs long after the recession's bottom — a bottom frequently unrecognized or disputed. Additionally, many businesses can increase their low production for a surprisingly long time without hiring anybody. Mechanization has extended this time lag.

Business failures, too, play their sad part in the continued joblessness. Some recoveries have actually brought increases in failures — many businesses facing collapse cannot live through the slowness of the pickup. Also the cuts in overhead and marginal personnel last a long while. In joblessness, recessions' bottoms simply do not come like the dove from Noah's Ark to signal that all is over.

Eventually, of course, unemployment drops as recovery proceeds. But when, oh, when? Behind the scenes, this is the White House worrybirds' worry.

New Army Recruiter Arrives in Kingston

KINGSTON — The man who at one time was the youngest sergeant first class in the Army has been assigned to Kingston for recruiting duty.

Sgt. First Class Gary L. Flaherty reported for duty at the Army recruiting offices at Broadway and Maiden Lane last month after three years of recruiting duty in Plattsburgh.

Flaherty was promoted to Sergeant "E-7" at the age of 24, seven years and three days after he joined the Army. The minimum amount of time that a man can make CFS is seven years.

Flaherty's wife is a native of Kingston, the former Rita Freer, daughter of Edward and Agnes Freer of Snyder Avenue. The sergeant and his wife are the parents of four children.

Flaherty served in Viet Nam four years ago where he won the Soldiers Medal and the Bronze Star for heroism and the Army Commendation Medal for service. He was also awarded three certificates of achievement while in Vietnam.

Upon returning from Viet Nam he attended and graduated from Army Recruiting School at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., as a distinguished graduate. Assigned to Plattsburgh, he won his second medal of commendation for his recruiting record and 35 separate certificates for recruiting.

He was also active with the Jaycees in Plattsburgh, selected an outstanding Jaycee in 1969.

Flaherty was one of four recruiters who walked 100 miles in 1968 to raise money for the Clinton County Gold Star Mothers to erect a monument honoring the county's servicemen who had been killed in Viet Nam. He walked the last 57 miles on crutches after a trick knee gave out on him. The recruiters raised $5,300.

Kingston's new Army recruiter is a native of Adena, Ohio, where he attended high school. He has furthered his education while in the Army attending the University of Maryland.

Flaherty said he intends to continue in community involvement through the Jaycees by joining and working with Kingston's local branch.

Drug Program Set Feb. 9 at Stone Ridge

STONE RIDGE — The Adult Education of the Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council will conduct a program Tuesday, Feb. 9 at the American Legion Hall, Stone Ridge.

William Carroll, chairman will conduct the program which is open to all interested parents and the general public. Meeting time is 7:30 p.m.

There will be a panel discussion and the latest film on narcotics narrated by Lorne Greene.

The program is being sponsored by Marbletown Post 1512, American Legion and is free of charge to all interested persons of the community as one of youth service programs of the Legion.

County Offices To Be Closed On Holidays

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Office Building, Fair and Main Streets, Kingston will be closed Friday, Feb. 12 and Monday, Feb. 15 in observance of Lincoln's and Washington's birthday, according to announcement made today by Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature.

Albert Spada, county clerk reminded all motorists today that they should check the expiration dates on their licenses and registrations for motor vehicles.

Spada urged them to make their renewals early rather than wait until the last day of the month when there are unnecessarily long lines and delays.

Recycling To Be Topic At Woodstock

WOODSTOCK — L.I.F.E. (Living in a Fulfilled Environment) will present another in a series of public programs on pollution Thursday 8 p. m. at the Woodstock School.

Richard Kirgan, a professor of biology at Ulster County Community College will speak on recycling and reclaiming what is classified as waste. He will discuss also additives in food. Discussion will follow.

Kirgan was committee chairman for Earth Day at Illinois State where he received his MS in biological science in 1969.

L.I.F.E. has presented a number of provacative and meaningful programs and has stimulated a community awareness of problems threatening the environment. The organization was formed last Earth Day.

Esopus Lions Will Sponsor Glaucoma Clinic

PORT EWEN — The Town of Esopus Lions Club will sponsor a glaucoma clinic open to the public on Feb. 7 in the town hall on Broadway from noon to 2 p.m.

Examinations will be given by three doctors who have volunteered their services, Dr. Henry C. Eichelmann, Dr. Stephen S. Scher and Dr. Milton Chasin.

Glaucoma causes excessive pressure within the eye leading to hardness of the eye and eventual blindness. Early detection of the disease through eye examination can prevent further visual deterioration and can cure the affliction.

Thomas J. Killeen of Gurney Street in Port Ewen is chairman of the Lions Sight Conservation Project and can be contacted for further information.

Hayden Attends School Meet

Thomas J. Hayden, superintendent of the Ellenville schools, attended the recent meeting of the State Council of School Administrators in Albany.

Hayden is the legislative liaison for Ulster and Sullivan Counties.

A review of state aid problems constituted a major portion of the meeting. Emphasis was placed on the transportation laws of 1970 which many chief school officers feel are likely to become both troublesome and expensive unless altered.

The fiscal situation of the state and the activities of the Fleischman Commission, which is currently studying education, also were discussed.

Memoriam

In memory of my Mother, Mrs. Ray Kittle, who passed away February 3, 1930.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance.
There is a memory fond and true,
And a token of affection, Mother
And a heartache still for you.
Loving Daughter,
MRS. EDWARD CARSON.

Memoriam

In sad memory of my Husband, Ernest J. Perry, whom God called home to rest on February 3, 1969.
Two years ago, this very day,
God took your soul to keep;
He gently closed your tired eyes
And bade you go to sleep.
I know you're resting peacefully,
Away from ill and harm
And that God will take care of you,
As I always did.
Your Wife,
LILLIAN.

Memoriam

In sad remembrance of our dear "Poppy," Ernest J. Perry, who passed away February 3, 1969.
We think of you in silence and often repeat your name.
Because you were the best Poppy in the world for us.
But now all we have left is your picture in a frame.
Oh God, please take this message to our dear Poppy.
Tell him how much we miss him
And give him all our love.
We will never forget you, Poppy.
Your Grandchildren.

Memoriam

In sad memory of my dear "Poppy," Ernest J. Perry, who left me so suddenly two years ago today, February 3, 1969.
If God would grant me just one wish,
I'd know, Poppy, what it would be like to kiss
Your cheek and hold your hand
And to see your smiling face again.
To tell you Poppy, that I love you and miss you more each day.
Michael and Arlene love you and miss you too.
Your Grandson,
TOM-TOM.

Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my dear Father, Ernest J. Perry, whom God took home to rest two years ago, February 3, 1969.
A silent thought brings many a tear.
For a father I lost and loved so dear;
Please God hold Your loving arms around him,
Keep him in your loving care.
Make up to him all he suffered,
And everything that was unfair.
This month of February comes with sad regrets,
It brings the day I will never forget.
No verse can say, no flowers repay
How much I lost on that sad day.
Your Sad Daughter,
AGNES.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Seeks National Observance

Fish One of Earth Week Sponsors

KINGSTON — Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., is joining the sponsors of Earth Day 1970 in asking Congress to declare Earth Week as a national observance.

"We celebrate July 4 as the birth of our nation; why not set aside a week devoted to making sure that our nation remains liveable?" Fish suggests.

"No one doubts that the United States is the first nation of technology — urbanized and mobile, with factories essential to our gigantic consumption," he said, "but the automobile has brought exhaust fumes and the problem of disposing of seven million junked cars each year. Industrial production has created pollution concealing the sun and waste that is despoiling our waterways. We are learning of the very real health hazards in polluted air and water. In short, our technology has been perfected to the point that it is capable of destroying what we are becoming to know is a highly fragile environment.

"Earth Week 1970 afforded the young the opportunity to explore the scope of action required to meet the environmental crisis. We heard of the possibility of social action—the recognition of individual responsibility for waste and pollution. We learned of the need for the exercise of 'consumer power' to change industrial practices. We heard a candid understanding of the factor of population growth. We saw an acceptance of the concept of stewardship and of a willingness to sacrifice.

"During the past year, within the Executive Branch of our Federal Government, the Environmental Protective Agency was created, pulling together under one roof all the previously fragmented efforts directed at abating environmental pollution. What Congress needs, too, is this concentrated approach to ecological problems.

"So, along with almost 100 of my colleagues, I have introduced into the new Congress legislation to establish a House Standing Committee on the Environment. For the Congress to be in the forefront of this fight, it must first organize itself for the task.

JAY P. ROLISON

"Such a committee would be a companion to the new focus in the Executive Branch, concentrating in one committee issues such as air, water and noise pollution, and solid waste disposal problems that are presently the concern of numerous committees.

"The members of a Standing Committee on the Environment would acquire a depth of knowledge in this vital area to impart to the Congress as a whole. It would be staffed with experts from the disciplines relevant to a thoughtful understanding of our environment," Fish concluded.

Rolison Will Give Ski Jumping Speech

ROSENDALE — State Senator Jay J. Rolison will participate in opening ceremonies for the New York State Ski Jumping Championship at Rosendale Feb. 6.

The competition will kick off at 1 p.m. on that date. Rolison will give the welcome speech after flag-raising ceremonies. Joseph Liguori will sing the Star Spangled Banner.

Sponsored by the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club, the state championship jumps will be held Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 6 and 7.

MRS. LORRAINE LOWE

Mother of Five Has Successful Heart Surgery

KINGSTON

There are many varieties of courage. Some receive the plaudits and acclaim of the multitudes. Others, and they are more numerous, remain unknown, unsung and unrewarded. They are the courage of heroes and heroines who in the face of direct adversity carry their heavy burdens cheerfully and uncomplainingly.

And, according to the Mid-Hudson Heart Association, Mrs. Lorraine Lowe, a Kingston native, is one of these persons.

Following is the MHHA report on heart surgery for Mrs. Lowe:

"Mrs. Lowe, a mother of three sons and two daughters, is a widow, her husband having died of a heart condition a year and a half ago. But this is not the only tragedy she was destined to suffer. For Mrs. Lowe was faced with the prospect of heart surgery for the replacement of three heart valves, an unusually difficult and rarely performed surgical feat.

"As a child, Mrs. Lowe was sickly and suffered a succession of sore throats and although it appeared to her that she was always under the doctor's care it was never diagnosed that she had rheumatic fever. Her doctor did say she had chorea, an ailment which like rheumatic fever, may be followed by a damaged heart.

"After the birth of her children, she began to complain of persistant tiredness and often seemed to be out of breath. There were times when she felt unable to do her household chores, and in a household of seven persons, those chores are undending.

"One day she read about free TB X-rays that were being made available to the public in a mobile unit and decided to be x-rayed. A shadow was found in the x-Ray and she was urged to get in touch with her doctor. She was assured, however that she didn't have tuberculosis. An examination by her doctor found her to have an enlarged heart which was severely damaged.

"But Mrs. Lowe had other concerns too. She simply did not know where to turn. Currently heart surgery is almost a commonplace but as recently as six years ago it was a chilling thought. Mrs. Lowe turned to her local Heart Association which made arrangements for her to have diagnostic tests at Kingston Hospital. This was in 1964.

"Dr. Edmund H. Reppert, presently director of Medical Education at Kingston Hospital, and Dr. Harold Rakov, a name almost all area residents think of when they think of heart, told her that the valves in her heart were damaged and that corrective surgery would benefit her.

"Mrs. Lowe accepted their diagnosis with a sense of relief. Arrangements were made for an operation at New York University Hospital. But first Mrs. Lowe went there for cardiac catheterization in May, 1965. Although it was previously assumed that two valves required replacement, it was ultimately discovered that three valves were severely damaged and needed to be replaced.

"She was advised to discuss it with her own physician woh lost little time in assuring her that the diagnosis was accurate and that he concurred with Drs. Reppert and Rakov in suggesting heart surgery.

"Mrs. Lowe did not need to be convinced but it was a traumatic experience heightened by the fact that she was primarily concerned for the welfare of her children. She made plans for the youngsters to be cared for in her absence, and six months after the initial findings, Mrs. Lowe went into the hospital for heart surgery.

"The operation was a complete success and she was compelled to remain in the hospital for only a month. She returned home two days before Christmas in 1965 to a joyous welcome from her family and friends.

"Her convalescence was of relatively short duration and after four months the test came. And when it came she was jubilant. The old tiredness was gone. The old feeling of being unable to cope with her daily duties vanished. Now she could do everything and she did. She was able to, and now does, live a normal life. She does all her own work and her spotless home attests to her excellent homekeeping skills.."

Vols Elect Officers

WOODSTOCK — The annual meeting of Woodstock Fire Company 1 was held recently with the following officers elected: president, James Burke; vice president, Steven Todd; secretary-treasurer, Herbert Wyman; chaplain the Rev. William Roger. Executive committee, Richard Maines, captain Ernest Koehn; first lieutenant, Roger Goodrich; second lieutenant, Michael Ghrel; chief driver, Joseph Raymond Jr.: Ghrel was also elected delegate to the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association with William Weigel, alternate.

Rivenberg and Goodrich were elected delegates to the Ulster County Firemen's Association.

Chief Duncan Wilson reported that the department answered 83 alarms during 1970, eight of which occurred in December.

Frank Van Wagner was elected to active membership in the company. A course in the essentials of firemanship was announced for an eight week program beginning this month.

Library Fair Slated Saturday, July 31

WOODSTOCK — At a recent meeting of the Trustees of the Woodstock Library, the date for the 1971 Library Fair was set.

The 40th annual fair will be held on Saturday, July 31, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Library grounds.

Adele Longendyke and Kevin Sweeney have again offered their services as chairman and treasurer, respectively.

Starting Saturday, Woodstock Library will be open an additional two hours each week. The new hours will be 10 to 12 Saturday morning. As usual the library will continue to be open Saturday afternoons from 1:30 to 5:30, p.m.

Other library hours are:

Tuesday, 10 to 12 noon; 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Wednesday, 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.; 7 to 9 p.m.

Friday 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Officials Attend Workshop Meeting

WOODSTOCK — Six officials from Woodstock attended a recent Workshop on supervision and management for the law enforcement supervisior at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College.

The six included Town Justices Rudolf C. Baumgarten and James R. Myers, Police Commissioner Joseph Farno, and Police Commissioner and Supervisor Milton Houst, Chief William S. Waterous, and Lieutenant Charles Wolven.

The workshop was jointly sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Law Enforcement Advisory Council of the College. It was conducted by Edward Mullen, an FBI special agent.

Rosary Society Meet

WOODSTOCK — The WSCS of Overlook Methodist Church is planning a luncheon to be held at noon on Feb. 8.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Laura Morse of Woodstock.

All women of the congregation are urged to attend and bring a favorite luncheon dish.

In case of snow, the luncheon will be Tuesday, Feb. 9.

Two Arrested For Shoplifting

NEW PALTZ — Two persons were arrested Tuesday by State Police from Highland on charges of petit larceny after they were accused of shoplifting at the Grand Union store in this village.

Troopers said the store's assistant manager, Edward Ahl, apprehended the defendants, Laurie Ann Schwartzburg of Gardiner and Richard Scott Estern, of 4405 Waldo Avenue, the Bronx, both 18. The merchandise was worth $6.50.

The defendants were arraigned before Town Justice Rexford Schneider. They pleaded guilty and each was sentenced to a fine of $100 or 30 days in the county jail. In lieu of payment of the fine both were committed until the fines are paid.

Sergeant D. R. Baker and Trooper P. A. Koenig of Highland made the arrests.

Woodstock Area News

Two Credit Courses Offered

WOODSTOCK — Ulster County Community College will offer two credit courses this spring at its Evening Extension Center at the Woodstock Elementary School, Ronald A. Koster, the director of Continuing Education, announced today.

State and Local Government will be offered on Monday nights, starting Feb. 8, and Freshman Composition II will be given on Wednesday nights, starting Feb. 10.

There will be in-person registration at the College's Stone Ridge campus on Thursday, Feb. 4, and Friday, Feb. 5, from 7 to 9 p.m., and on Saturday, Feb. 6, from 9 to 1 p.m.

The administration of the Onteora Central School District is cooperating with the college in the offering of these extension courses in Woodstock for the benefit of local residents.

Further information about these courses, or other evening courses being offered by the college in the Spring Semester can be obtained by calling the Center of Continuing Education at the College.

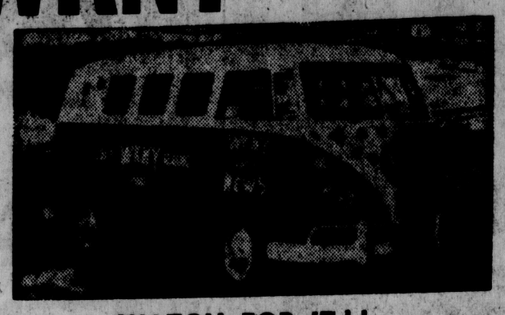

Tuesday Club Schedules Activity for Valentine

WOODSTOCK — The February 9th meeting of the Tuesday Club of Woodstock will be held at 1:30 p.m. at the Dutch Reformed Church Hall on the Village Green.

This will be a fun session Various games are on the agenda. Members are requested to bring a Valentine to exchange with another member.

Hostesses for the occasion will be Mary Busch, Pauline Lindroth, Luella Foxhall and Marguerite VanDeBogart. Dorothy Paulick is president.

Camera Club Lists Awards

RED HOOK

Awards have been made in the December Animal Competition of the Northern Dutchess Camera Club.

"Portrait of Amos" by John Losee, of Red Hook, and "I'm New Here" by Louise Lamson, of Barrytown, received top honors in Class B.

Honorable Mentions were awarded to "Breakfast Time" by Clifford Buck, of Salt Point, and "Three Musketeers" by James Opie, of Red Hook.

Awards in Class A went to Win Swanton, of Pine Plains, for "The Family" and to Vern Lamson, of Barrytown, for "Morgan Mare". Two Honorable Mentions went to Lucie Ford for "Ruff" and "Vermont Scene."

Youth Leaders To Meet Their Counterparts

KINGSTON

Four successful candidates in the Youth-in-Government Program currently in progress have been invited to meet their adult legislative counterparts Thursday night at 6:45 in the County Office Building.

Kathleen Locke of Kingston High School, recently elected by students as chairman of the Ulster County Legislature will confer with the actual chairman Peter J. Savago, (R Dist. 8).

Nancy Sherman, Rondout High School representing the People's Party will meet with Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) to discuss her role when she assumes the post of majority leader in a mock takeover of county government. Lorna Stevens, Saugerties High School; Open Line Party and Robert Stevens, Kingston High School, Progressive Party, both named minority leaders will confer with Roger Mabie (D-Dist. 7). Two minority leaders were chosen because three political parties were represented in the various student elections held late last year in the different schools of the county.

The Thursday meeting is in preparation for a full meeting of the Legislature planned for Thursday, Feb. 11 in the County Legislature which is to be attended by all the students who won posts as county officials and members of the county board.

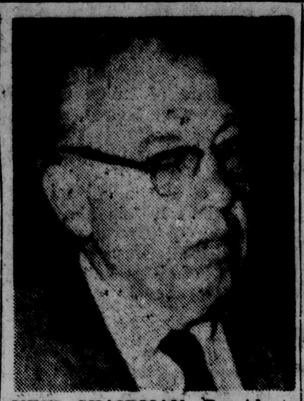

Legislator S. Robert Kelder (R-Dist. 2) and Miss Mary Lou Coutant, a social studies teacher at Marlboro High School are in charge of the Youth-in-Government Program sponsored by the Youth and Government Committee of the County Legislature.

Snow Fun Day

The Shawnee Snowmobile Club is planning a fun day Sunday, Feb. 14, starting 1 p.m. five miles south of New Paltz on Route 208. The site is owned by Arthur McCord.

There will be free snowmobile rides, toboggan rides, sleigh rides, refreshments and other outdoor winter fun.

The event is open to the public and there will be no admission charge.

NEW CHAIRMAN—President Nixon has named William J. Casey as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. A New York lawyer, Casey will succeed Hamer H. Budge, who resigned at the close of the last Congress. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Elias to Head UC Magistrates

KINGSTON

Ulster County Magistrate's Association has selected Ellenville village Justice Ronald Elias as its president for the year 1971.

Elias and the other members of the slate named recently by a nominating committee will be installed at a dinner dance to be held Sunday, Feb. 21 at the Nevele Country Club in Ellenville.

They are vice president, Highland Town Justice Lewis DiStasi; secretary, Marlboro Town Justice Patrick T. Martaraza; treasurer, Rosendale Village Justice Wilfred Doolittle.

Directors include: Shandaken Town Justice, George Kirk; Woodstock Town Justice James Myers; Hurley Town Justice C. H. DuMond; Plattekill Town Justice Wayne Smith; Wallkill Town Justice Fred Earl; Ulster Town Justice Sherwood Davis.

Mental Health Board... New Members and a Reappointment

KINGSTON — Legislative approval is expected Feb. 11 for the appointment of New Paltz lawyer Richard W. Lent to the Ulster County Mental Health Board and the reappointment of the Rev. David C. Gaise DD., to another three year term on the board.

Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago recommended Lent's appointment to fill out the unexpired term of County Judge Raymond J. Mino which runs through Dec. 31, 1971.

A native of Highland, Lent is the son of Harold A. and Elizabeth Lent. He and his wife, Babette are the parents of two children.

A graduate of Union College and Albany Law School, he was admitted to the Bar in 1949 and has practiced law in New Paltz since then.

Justice of Peace of Town of New Paltz 1952-58 he was Supervisor of Town of New Paltz in 1959; served as vice president of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America from 1962-64; member of Board of Visitors Highland State School for Children since 1961; president of Margaret A. Jamison Memorial, Inc. since 1961; member of Advisory Board of New Paltz Branch of State of New York National Bank since 1968.

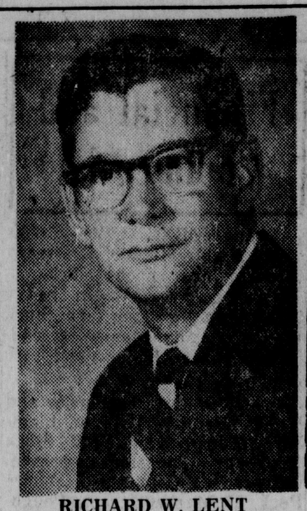

Lent is a member of Narcotics Guidance Council, Town of New Paltz and attorney for the Zoning Board of Appeals of Town of New Paltz. Also American, New York State and Ulster County Bar Association, American Judicature Society; Brannen VanDenBerg Post 8645, Veterans of Foreign Wars, member and Past Master of Adonai Lodge 718 F.&A.M.; member and past presient of Paltz Club, member of New Paltz-Highland Rotary Club.

Lent served with the United States Army Air Force, 1942-1946 as a navigator with the 15th Air Force received the Air Medal with three clusters, Purple Heart, European Theatre Ribbon, seven battle stars and a Presidential Unit Citation.

Dr. Gaise, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer for more than 22 years, is a member of the Board of Trustees of Wagner College, Staten Island and was honored last year for having served the college board for 15 years.

Born in Buffalo and educated in the Niagara Falls school system, he graduated from Wagner College and Hartwick Seminary and was ordained in 1938. He served pastorates in Central Bridge and Albany prior to coming to Kingston where he has been active in religious and civic circles.

In June 1958, Hartwick College awarded him the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity in recognition of his dedicated service to the community and to the church-at-large.

Chest and Student Program — New Problems by Cutback

KINGSTON — Four of the 15 Ulster County Community Chest agencies faced additional financial problems in the possible cutback of state funds which financed the work of students at New Paltz State University for various agencies devoted to mental health and related fields.

Last week the agencies were advised of cuts in their allocations from Chest due to a deficit in the 1970 fund campaign.

The student program served two purposes, it provided additional help to the agencies and also enhanced the education of the students.

Ulster County Community Chest revealed this week that four of its agencies, the Association for Retarded Children, the Boy's Club, Gateway industries and Ulster County Association for Mental Health, who have been active in the student program may not receive the state funds to continue. Once the funds are exhausted and no new funds allocated, the program will have to cease.

The Chest report noted that even if the Chest Campaign had met its goal of $400,000, the agency budgets would not have allowed funding without state aid.

Mrs. Betty Millham of New Paltz, a member of the Mental Health Association's Board of Directors, who is co-director of the student program said the students have been serving the community in such varied capacities as psychiatric aides, child care workers, recreational therapists, teacher's aides, community field workers and tutorial instructors. She added that since the only financial obligation to the students was the reimbursement of their actual expenses, the cost of such a vital and worthwhile project was certainly minimal, and that the educational benefits derived by the student could not be measured in dollars and cents.

During the coming college semester a team of 67 students will be working with a dozen different social agencies throughout the county, and their efforts will be directed by several New Paltz faculty members from the University's Education Department, including the Department's Professor, Dr. Dorothy Hayes, who has worked with Mrs. Millham as the program's co-director.

Assisting Dr. Hayes this year will be Dr. Joseph Castallano, Professor Stanley Daniels, and Professor Samuel Bodanza. By the end of the semester, however, the small budget provided by the State Department of Mental Hygiene will have been spent, and there is no indication now that any additional state funds will be provided to continue the project. Three years ago a similar student work-study interne program was instituted in the Albany area, and that program is now part of the Department of Sociology at the State University in Albany, but as yet there seems to be little hope that the state has any similar plans for the Ulster County project.

UCCC Slates Registration

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College has scheduled registration on Thursday, Friday (Feb. 5), and Saturday (Feb. 6), for part-time students to sign up for day or evening courses in the Spring Semester, Ronald A. Koster, the Director of Continuing Education, announced today.

The registration will be held in the Algonquin Building at the college's Stone Ridge campus. The hours are 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday and Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Students will have an opportunity to sign up for courses being offered at the Stone Ridge campus and at Evening Extension Centers at Kingston High School, Saugerties High School, Ellenville High School, Highland High School, and the Woodstock Elementary School.

Advisors will be available at registration on all three days to provide free counseling on course selection and educational needs.

Koster said the college has a wide variety of courses available to help adults who want to meet job requirements or to facilitate advancement in certain occupations and professions. He noted that persons can take an education program leading to a two-year degree, or take individual courses without credit by auditing them.

Chamber Project

Total Involvement

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

KINGSTON — Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, in a new concept for business-oriented associations will in the next few weeks commit its leaders to total involvment in the social problems of the community.

Dr. Jeremiah Sachs, a local dentist, and former Chamber president heads the Total Community Development Committee which will channel the Chamber's energies toward the solution of some of the community's problems: Environment, narcotics, education and housing.

Dr. Sachs said a Steering Committee which has been functioning for some times is expected to have a report on its research of the community at a meeting Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 7:30 p. m. at the Gov. Clinton Hotel lounge. The public is invited.

Four task forces, one for each of the four above mentioned categories will be formed. Their purpose will be to find the problems and discuss them with the people involved and through these discussions find out if the actual people involved have possible solutions.

Dr. Sachs said many of these problems are solvable if the task force members can bring together the people with the problem and those who can solve them.

The purpose of the program is mainly getting people together, he said.

He said the task forces will be seeking diversity of opinions and backgrounds with the end result being conclusions and recommendations. Dr. Sachs stressed that the committee and the task forces will not tell them how to solve these problems. The solutions will be discovered by the exchange of ideas and methods.

The four topics of involvement and the men who will head the task forces will include the following:

Environment — Howard Rust, social studies teacher at Kingston High School.

Narcotics — Dr. Elmer McKay, IBM physician and chairman of Kingston Narcotics Guidance Council.

Education — Robert Yallum, a local merchant and vice president of M. Yallum Sons.

Housing — George V. Hutton Jr., architect.

The task force leaders would like to discuss these problems with representative of groups already involved and also individuals, who may have ideas on the subject. These people should be prepared to present their views at the meeting.

Chamber President Clifford A. Henze in outlinging his program for 1971 and his announcement of the task force approach, listed water and sewerage among the problems. This would be the responsibility of the Environment task force. In a recent interview with The Freeman, Henze said there would be many problems and priorities would be set to consider solutions for each.

Dr. Sachs said last fall the Chamber sent out 800 letters advising organizations and leaders about the proposed project and inviting them to participate. He said he hoped many of these organizations will be represented so that the task forces can determine what the people of the community want most for this area. The local dentist said if enough people settle on one subject this is the one that will receive priority for study and probably this problem would be the one that is solved first. When one problem is solved they would go on to the next problem.

He said it is vital that all people interested in these problems attend the meeting and present these problems so that priorities for study can be set. It is expected that there will be many who have problems and it will be the task force's responsibility to channel these in the right direction in order to contact those who can help in solving them.

He admitted it is a huge undertaking and it will take many in the community to make it successful. Further information may be obtained by calling Dr. Sachs or any of the task force leaders.

Conservation Club Backs Study of Adirondacks

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Strong backing for the recently released report of the Adirondack Study Commission has come from the 5,500-member Club conservation chairman David L. Newhouse, of Schenectady, said in a statement today that the club "strongly concurs with the finding . . . that an independent, bipartisan Adirondack Park Agency is needed to initiate land use plans for both public and private lands in the Adirondack Park.

"Only 40 per cent of the land in the park is forest land owned by the state. We have at most ten years to control and restrain pressures and developments in the park which threaten the natural, wild forest character of the region," he said, following a weekend meeting here of the club's board of governors.

The board urged favorable consideration in the legislature of the study commission's 181 recommendations, published early this year. It commended Gov. Rockefeller for setting up the panel.

In his statement, Newhouse highlighted the need for legislation to clarify the legal and tax status of scenic easements recommended by the commission.

The club board said it would offer further comment on any legislative proposals relating to the recommendations. It also inaugurated a hiking award for users of the club-sponsored Northville-Placid Trail, a 118-mile trail being promoted to offset the erosion caused to better known trails by excessive use.

UPTOWN KINGSTON 318 WALL ST.

Ulster Planned As One of Nine State Urban Centers

ALBANY — Ulster County is slated as one of nine new urban centers to be created under Gov. Rockefeller's newly released 20-year physical development plan which anticipates a 23.4 million population by 1990 with 90 per cent of it concentrated in dense urban areas.

New Paltz too, is mentioned as being proposed for a major population increase and foreseen as a major urban center to the urban growth around it.

The anticipated statewide population increase would be up 24.5 per cent from today's 18.8 million with the dense urban areas seen as including New York City-Lower Hudson Valley, Albany - Schenectady - Troy, Binghamton, Buffalo, Elmira-Corning, Rochester, Syracuse and Utica.

The plan, prepared by the State Office of Planning Coordination is meant as a guide to land use development and will be followed by an economic and social plan. It lays out an organized settlement pattern as well as designating land use and transportation corridors designed to speed progress.

Ulster County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, commenting on the announced plan, foresees problems in that an area such as New Paltz is currently without a municipal water and sewer system. Savago said he questions whether or not the state should have the right to tell towns or areas that they have to accept a specified amount of people.

Under the Rockefeller plan. New York City would absorb Nassau, Suffolk, Westchester, Putnam, Rockland and Orange Counties and cut into Dutchess. Ulster, Greene and Columbia Counties.

New York City would also move into parts of Connecticut and New Jersey.

Current high density areas such as Poughkeepsie and Newburgh are seen as losing population by about 6.8 per cent each.

While the state is preparing for urban sprawl it is also earmarking $25 million for spending during 1971-72 in Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties, according to Gov. Rockefeller's proposed budget.

Scheduled are construction projects of all kinds, rehabilitation services at training schools and hospitals and other facilities.

Millions will be spent at Middletown State Hospital, and $1.7 million is designated for the Highland Training School for Boys. Funds are also slated for the correctional facility at Wallkill where there are 435 inmates.

At the Highland Training School, construction of a physical education building will cost $1.2 million; construction of staff housing, $500,000 and acquistition of property, $28,850. There are reappropriations in the budget.

At Wallkill, alterations to the laundry building will cost $90,000 (recommended) and replacement of the heating system, $130,382 (reappropriation).

Five Suggestions From Chief Brett

KINGSTON — Enactment of a Fire Prevention Code by the Common Council and the purchase of a parcel of land in uptown Kingston as a site for a new fire station, were two of five recommendations made by Fire Chief James M. Brett in his annual report to the Board of Fire Commissioners.

The chief noted in his report that he feels the recommendations are of the utmost importance "in maintaining the present level of efficiency and improving fire defenses of the city" to cope with present conditions, and the potential development of the city he said is now in progress.

Brett said that recommendations for a suitable Fire Prevention Code for the city had previously been made. "However," he noted, "this appeal has achieved no concrete results in spite of the fact that it has been reiterated for the past 12 years." In commenting on the Code recommendation, the chief said fire offficials are cognizant of the fact that a previous administration caused a Code to be enacted by the Common Council.

"The fact that the Code was never published indicates that it was enacted for reasons other than promoting fire safety in the city of Kingston," the report continues. Brett urged the Common Council to enact another Fire Prevention Code and noted that that request is substantiated by the Code Codifying Agency that was recently employed by the city.

Commenting on his request for acquisition of property in uptown Kingston for a firehouse, Brett said that through the past several years there has been "sporadic pressure" from diverse sources to move the Wiltwyck Fire Station from its present site. He cited reasons for the change of location as "impossible traffic impediment existing on Fair Street and the proposed conversion of Wall Street and North Front Street to a pedestrian mall.

Brett proposed that the purchase of land for a firehouse site be made immediately because of the few suitable locations now available..

Also recommended in the chief's report is the enactment by the Common Council of mandatory legislation requiring all hospitals, schools, nursing homes, places of detention and other institutions having a high life hazard to install sprinkler systems connected to the Municipal Fire Alarm System.

"This legislation would create no great hardships on the institutions so affected, for the following reasons," Brett said. "The majority of such institutions in the city already have such protection, and this protection actually entails no additional expense to the institutions over a period of time."

Brett noted that if the institution is properly insured the reduced premium will not only pay for the installation cost, but will show a generous profit through the years.

The chief's report also recommended the purchase of a new fire alarm service truck to replace the present vehicle which is 12 years old. The body structure of the truck is badly deteriorated from corrosion, the chief noted.

Also recommended by Brett is the replacing of the engine in Truck 1 stationed at Central Fire Station, with an adequately powered diesel engine for reliability. The present engine, the chief noted was a used engine and its reliability in the future is very questionable.

In his report the chief noted that two new 1,500-gallon pumping engines were placed in service in October, replacing old Engine 2 and Engine 3, which will be used as reserve pumpers.

"We had hoped to have a reserve ladder truck," Brett said, "but unfortunately we found it necessary to reject the second Aero Chief 90 Platform apparatus for failure to meet the drawn specifications. Brett also reported Engine 1 is being fully repaired and painted, and the 12 year old base radio station and antenna has been replaced with a new modern 100 watt base station and a high gain antenna which increases the communication efficiency of all radios in the department.

Discussion at Gardiner Meeting On Proposed Snowmobile Ruling

By WADE BURKHART

GARDINER — A lengthy discussion of a proposed snowmobile ordinance dominated Tuesday night's meeting of the Gardiner Town Board.

A suggested ordinance was delivered to the board by Jack Wheeler, head of a citizen's advisory committee set up by the board to study the matter. The ordinance closely followed one recenly adopted by the Town of Shawangunk.

The proposed ordinance, which would restrict the use of town roads to residents of Gardiner and their guests, would allow snowmobiles to use the extreme right hand side of the road, would declare all town roads "uncongested and safe" for snowmobile travel, and would specify that snowmobiles must yield the right of way to all pedestrians and could not pass any moving vehicle.

Supervisor George Majestic raised the question of enforcement of the ordinance and the extra expense incurred by the town for the posting of signs as required by state law.

Justice Warren McDowell took issue with the phrase "uncongested and safe." It was his contention that if this phrase was left in the ordinance pertaining to all town roads the town would be liable for damages should the roads prove to be congested and unsafe.

Many of the town residents present at the meeting voiced complaints about the abuse of private property by snowmobilers and raised the question of whether the element responsible for these abuses would abide by any ordinance.

In view of the many questions raised and the general lack of answers, the board voted to table the ordinance until further information could be gathered. Majestic expressed the hope that residents of the town would contact board members and express their views on the matter.

In other action, a hearing on a reduction in taxes for senior citizens will be held at the regular board meeting in March, scheduled for March 9.

A total of $39,000 was allocated in the budget for primary work and general repair of the 44 miles of town roads. Superintendent of Highways John Gray said that Old Ford Road and Jenkinstown Road were slated for repair and repaving.

In response to a complaint about the unsightly condition of the road leading to the town dump, Councilman John Bonagura said that this was a continuing "people problem." The dump is open Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and people coming to the dump on other days frequently empty their refuse outside the dump rather than bringing it back when the dump is open, according to Bonagura.

Majestic said that he had received complaints about the recent raises given town officials, and moved that the board go on record as having the policy of asking for no raises except during an election year. The motion was carried unanimously in a roll call vote, with Councilman Robert Laquette and Justice Samuel Stokes voting for the measure only after emphasizing that this was to be a board policy and not necessarily binding on other town officials.

The board, at the request of the Ulster County Federation of Sportsmen and the Gardiner Rod and Gun Club, went on record as favoring a suspension of the party permit system for next year's big game season.

Two Showing Improvement

The condition of Mrs. Juanita DeGraff and her daughter Wendy, 20 of Glenford, injured in an automobile accident Saturday is described as "improved" by the Glens Falls Hospital where they are patients.

Mrs. DeGraff's husband, Lewis died in the accident which occured when the car he was driving ran into the back end of a snowplow on Interstate Rt. 87, the Adirondack Northway.

Mrs. DeGraff and her daughter had been in critical condition for several days.

County Historian Mixes Report With Some Advice

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

"We are still having trouble making people aware of the need to check before destroying old papers," County Historian Kenneth E. Hasbrouck said this week in his annual report.

By old papers, Hasbrouck means those of the 18th and 19th Century, papers such as wills, deeds, pamphlets, hand bills, newspapers, old Bibles (with family records), letters and public notices.

Lack of certain records that have been either lost or perhaps mislaid continue to cause problems in doing research, he said, explaining that Civil War records for the Town of Gardiner are lost and he is hopeful that they will be discovered in private hands.

Excellent and successful research of the men of New Paltz who served in the Civil War was accomplished during the past year by Dr. John Sherwig, according to Hasbrouck who said that this led him to check on the Civil War records of Shawangunk. They were found, compiled, edited and placed in a permanent repository.

The importance of research is stressed by Hasbrouck because he feels the prime purpose of historical organizations is education.

Quoting Barnaby C. Keeney, chairman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, he said, "Understanding society's problems is a great need in the emotion-charged atmosphere of the 1970's. People are clamoring for simple answers to complex situations. Some reject the value of human experience and demand instant solutions based not on understanding, but on emotion.

"What this country, and indeed the whole world lacks, is an understanding of the past, where we have been; the present; where we are and the future; where we are going.

"An historical and analytical approach is essential to answer any of these questions," he concludes.

Suggesting that an active historical society has a vital part to play in today's world, Hasbrouck said that along with museums, houses and preservation of documents, plans must be made to provide such things as wild life sanctuaries, space for future generations, library space, crafts and farm museums within and hour's ride for children.

Three wild life sanctuaries have been acquired by the Huguenot Historical Society, he reports. They serve as places where people may hike and enjoy trees, grass and birds in a natural habitat. They are in Gardiner, New Paltz and Marbletown.

Hasbrouck said he recently had two excellent historical reports from Alberta Davis of Rochester and Katherine Terwilliger of Wawarsing who he said did a good job of pleading the cause for teaching New York State history in the schools.

He referred too, to the "tragic loss" of Mrs. Clara Gaffney, Plattekill town historian who gave area school children opportunity to take part in historical research.

There was a time, he said, when it was necessary for town historians to keep scrapbooks and other materials on local happenings. With newspaper files and microfilms, this phase of work is less important. Hasbrouck said the historians' main concern today is compiling unknown facts, writing them down, taking tape recordings of facts that can be told by older residents and searching out material which would otherwise be lost.

Ulster County has a great need for more qualified town historians Hasbrouck said. "We are most fortunate in having a number of good reliable people who serve their communities, however, some towns do not have historians or people have been appointed who probably did not want the job in the first place."

Hasbrouck spoke of the continued expansion of the Mohonk Trust, the nomination of five special route areas in Ulster County for their outstanding scenic value, the state purchase of Minnewaska property and the researching of seven sites by the Historic Landmarks Commission as candidates for historic landmarks designations.

The New York State Historic Trust met in Kingston in 1970 and the Historian's Conference was also held here to discuss the forthcoming Bicentennial of the Revolutionary War.

At the present time Ulster County has the following historical societies or groups devoted totally or in part to preserving and displaying the history of the county: Senate House Museum, Friends of Kingston, Lloyd Historical Society, Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz, Wawarsing Historical Society, Ulster County Historical Society, Woodstock Historical Society and the Delaware and Hudson Canal Society.

C-H Clarifies Situation

KINGSTON

The following statement has been issued by C-H officials in an effort to clarify the power supply situation as it presently exists in the Central Hudson system:

Central Hudson's generating facilities are capable of providing 611,100 kilowatts. Under normal conditions this is adequate to supply the electric requirements of all Central Hudson customers. For example, this winter's peak usage of 521,000 kilowatts — set on December 22 — was only 85 per cent of Central Hudson's installed generating capacity.

From time to time its generating units are taken out of service for maintenance, and the power normally provided by these units is made up by purchasing power from other electric companies in the New York Power Pool, or from electric companies in other pools.

At the present time, Central Hudson's major generating unit at the Danskammer Point plant is out of service for repairs which could not be postponed. The 235,000 kilowatt unit — which represents 37 per cent of Central Hudson's total generating capacity — was taken out of service on January 24 and is scheduled to be returned to service on February 15. At that time, Central Hudson once again will have sufficient generating capacity within its own system to supply the full needs of its customers. In the meantime, Central Hudson has been and will continue to purchase make-up power through the New York Power Pool.

Under normal circumstances, there is sufficient reserve power in the pool to accommodate electric companies whenever they take generating units out of service for maintenance. A problem arises, however, when there are lower reserves in the pool. Such a situation has existed for the last few weeks.

The installed generating capability of the New York Power Pool is approximately 22,900,000 kilowatts to meet a projected peak load this winter of 17,100,000 kilowatts. Recently, between 5 and 6.8 million kilowatts of generating capacity has been out of service throughout New York State on any given day. Critical situations have developed on cold days when the use of electricity has been high, and when the amount of generating capacity out of service also has been high. This was the case on Monday, February 1.

In an effort to maintain a balance between the amount of power which was being used and the amount which was available, Central Hudson reduced voltage by five per cent at 10 a.m. Voltage reduction has the effect of reducing the amount of electric power being consumed. By mid-day, Central Hudson requested its large industrial and commercial customers to curtail their use of electric power. Although these steps did result in the conservation of electricity, it became necessary to reduce further the amount of power which was being consumed. Consequently, at 2:30 p.m. Central Hudson began requesting that all customers voluntarily reduce their non-essential uses of electricity.

The cooperation of all customers on Monday was very helpful in preventing the situation from deteriorating to the point where it might have become necessary to interrupt electric service on a limited basis because of a shortage of power.

Because of a tight power situation again Tuesday Central Hudson reduced voltage by five per cent at 8 a.m. A request to all customers to curtail non-essential use of electric power was made at 9 a.m.

Central Hudson is hopeful that make-up power will be available through the New York Power Pool on a daily basis between now and Feb. 15. However, on days when the pool has limited reserves Central Hudson will be forced to take similar action to that which was taken on Monday, Feb. 1.

Children's Library Hours Are Extended

According to a news release in Monday's Freeman, the children's section of Kingston Area Library, destined to close on February 1, will now remain open until March 1. Future plans for the special section of the library will depend upon a planned fund raising campaign.

In keeping with the expanded time limit, members of B'nai B'rith Women are planning a series of special programs for youngsters. This is not a new activity for according to their release to the Woman's Department B'nai B'rith Women has provided Story Hour Programs during the month of February for the past 16 years.

The programs given by B'nai B'rith Women will be under the direction of Mrs. Martin Aaron, chairman. The sechedule will be as follows:

February 5 — Mrs. William Gould, noted violinist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic, will read stories of interest;

February 12 — the library will be closed in observance of Lincoln's Brithday;

February 19 — "Dolls for Democracy," a special B'nai B'rith program, will be given. The skit highlights prominent historical figures including Abraham Lincoln, Marion Anderson Dr. Jonas Salk, Florence Nightengale, John Kennedy, and Eleanor Roosevelt. B'nai B'rith women participating in this program will include Mrs. Bernhardt Kramer, Mrs. Arthur Motzkin, Mrs. David Gally, Mrs. David Weinstein, Mrs. Massie Mehl, Mrs. Abe Meisner and Mrs. William Gould.

February 26 — Mrs. Jerome Simon will offer an Oragamie demonstration. This is the art of paper folding.

All children ages 1-11 are invited to attend these programs. The programs are given each Friday in February at 4 p.m. in the Children's Library in Kingston.

* * *

Gloria Jean McCord and James D. Lopiano have qualified for the dean's list at Sullivan County Community College.

Miss McCord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Arthur McCord of New Paltz, is a Secretarial Science major. She is a 1969 graduate of New Paltz Central High School.

Lopiano, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lopiano of Lomontville, is majoring in Hotel Technology. He is a 1970 graduate of Rondout Valley Central School.

MRS. GLORIA GRAHAM

(Freeman photo by Haines)

Named YWCA Executive Director

Every morning about 7:10 Gloria Graham leaves her home in the Bronx, gets into her car and takes off in the direction of Kingston, N.Y. At about 8:20 she is at her destination — 209 Clinton Avenue, the Ulster County YWCA. Mrs. Graham is the YW's new executive director.

Mrs. Graham replaces Miss Frances Maxwell who resigned her position as director effective January 15 to accept the post of case worker for the Ulster County Department of Social Services.

The YW's new director is very enthusiastic about her job and doesn't mind traveling in from the Bronx on a daily schedule. "It only takes about an hour and a half," she told the Woman's Department of The Freeman.

Mrs. Graham, who was officially welcomed to the YWCA at a reception and tea on Monday, Feoruary 1, comes to the local organization with a full and varied background in community organizational work which included non-profit agencies. For the past six years she served as director of public information for the South Bronx Community Corporation. In recognition of her outstanding contribution, she received the community service award from School Board District Nine in the Bronx.

More recently she worked for the Girl Scout Council of Greater New York as a Field Advisor supervising five districts. Her work involved 3,065 girls and 1,000 adult volunteers. In addition, Mrs. Graham formulated and developed a special summer Girl Scout program called "Happy Days." The program was so successful it was made a permanent part of the Girl Scout structure.

Mrs. Graham is also active in the area of Civil Rights. She is a lifetime member of NAACP and was formerly Public Information Officer for the Bronx Wide Club, an organization whose purpose was to register minority groups to vote, provide housing and to work against job discrimination.

The new YW director is married to William James Graham, a social worker with the New York City Department of Probation in the Bronx Division. She is a graduate of Morris Brown College in Atlanta, Ga., and holds a BA Degree in Sociology.

HVPS Luncheons, Fund Drive

Mrs. Amos Newcombe and Mrs. Richard Messina are coordinating a new project sponsored by Ulster County Council of Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society called Pyramid Luncheons. These events will combine social gatherings and luncheons.

Miss Margaret Beal, chairman of the Chamber Music committee, has reported that the first of the Chamber Music Concerts was heard January 23 at the Church of the Holy Cross in Kingston. Both the concert and the reception which took place in the church hall were well attended. Miss Claudia Messina coordinated the reception. The second concert of the series will be held Saturday, Feb. 13 and the third concert is scheduled for March 6. Tickets for the final two concerts are available. Miss Beal will accept phone reservations for tickets at the door.

At the January meeting held at the home of Norman Rafalowsky, president, announcement was made that Henry Sykes of Woodstock will serve as Ulster County chairman for the Philharmonic Sustaing Fund Drive to be held in the spring.

Various activities have been initiated as a continuing effort to support the orchestra. The In Home Concerts, chaired by Mrs. Thomas Backus, consists of small groups of musicians performing in private homes.

PHILHARMONIC FUND DRIVE — Henry Sykes (L) has been named chairman of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society Fund Drive in Ulster County. He will be assisted by Roy Ickes (C) vice president of the Council, and Richard North, treasurer. Residents of Woodstock, Saugerties and New Paltz, as well as Kingston, will be solicited.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

DEAR MRS. POST: What do you think about having milk in a carton, sugar in the box, catsup in the bottle, etc. on the dinner table? I don't mean on the kitchen table either — I mean when you have guests and sit in the dining room?

ELSIE T.

DEAR ELSIE: I think it's in very poor taste. Even on the kitchen table, milk should be poured into the glasses before the meal or served in a pitcher. Sugar should be put in a sugar bowl. For family meals, ketchup, meat sauce, and condiments may remain in their own containers. For company dinners, they should be served in nice bowls or cruets.

* * *

DEAR MRS. POST: My card club of eight ladies would like to celebrate a member's birthday by going to a night club instead of playing bridge at our next meeting. Some of us are worried that a group of unescorted women would be out of place at a night club. What is your opinion.

MADGE

DEAR MADGE: If you go to dinner and stay for the early show, I see nothing wrong with it. I do think you would be out of order to go to the later show — in fact some clubs migh even be reluctant to admit you.

MR. AND MRS. ELWIN SCHOONMAKER of High Falls were honored at a surprise party celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary on Saturday, Jan. 30 at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Ewen. The party was given by their children, Mrs. Anthony (Nancy) Jerolino, Peggy, and Elwin Schoonmaker. Relatives and friends attended from High Falls, Olivebridge, Middletown, Staten Island and New Jersey. Among those in attendance were the Rev. Richard L. Brihn of High Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bush of High Falls who were attendants for the couple; Mrs. Schoonmaker's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Countryman; her sisters, Mrs. Erling Frivold and Mrs. Arnold VanLaer; Mr. Schoonmaker's brother Elmer and sisters, Mrs. John Beetham and Mrs. Harold Linnartz. Serve a Strawberry Mousse to Honor St. Valentine

Tack up an old-fashioned Valentine in your kitchen to put you in the mood to make a beautiful dessert for St. Valentine's Day.

Next, take down a heart-shaped mold from the shelf and set to work making a very easy Strawberry Valentine Mousse. It has the most exquisite texture, thanks to the inspiration of including sour cream in the mixture. Unflavored gelatine helps retain the buoyancy of the fluffy egg whites added to the mousse, and for flavor and natural coloring, frozen sliced strawberries are used.

A look, a taste, of this delectable pink dessert announces that you have made your gesture to St. Valentine and that it is a big success. If you're having a dinner party on St. Valentine's day, this is the ideal dessert. It can be made the day before, put away in the refrigerator, and then unmolded just before serving. It's a great treat for the family, too.

To unmold, dip the mold to the depth of its contents in a bowl of warm, not hot, water. Run a sharp paring knife around the rim. Turn the mold upside down over a serving plate and shake the mold gently. If the contents do not emerge readily, repeat the process.

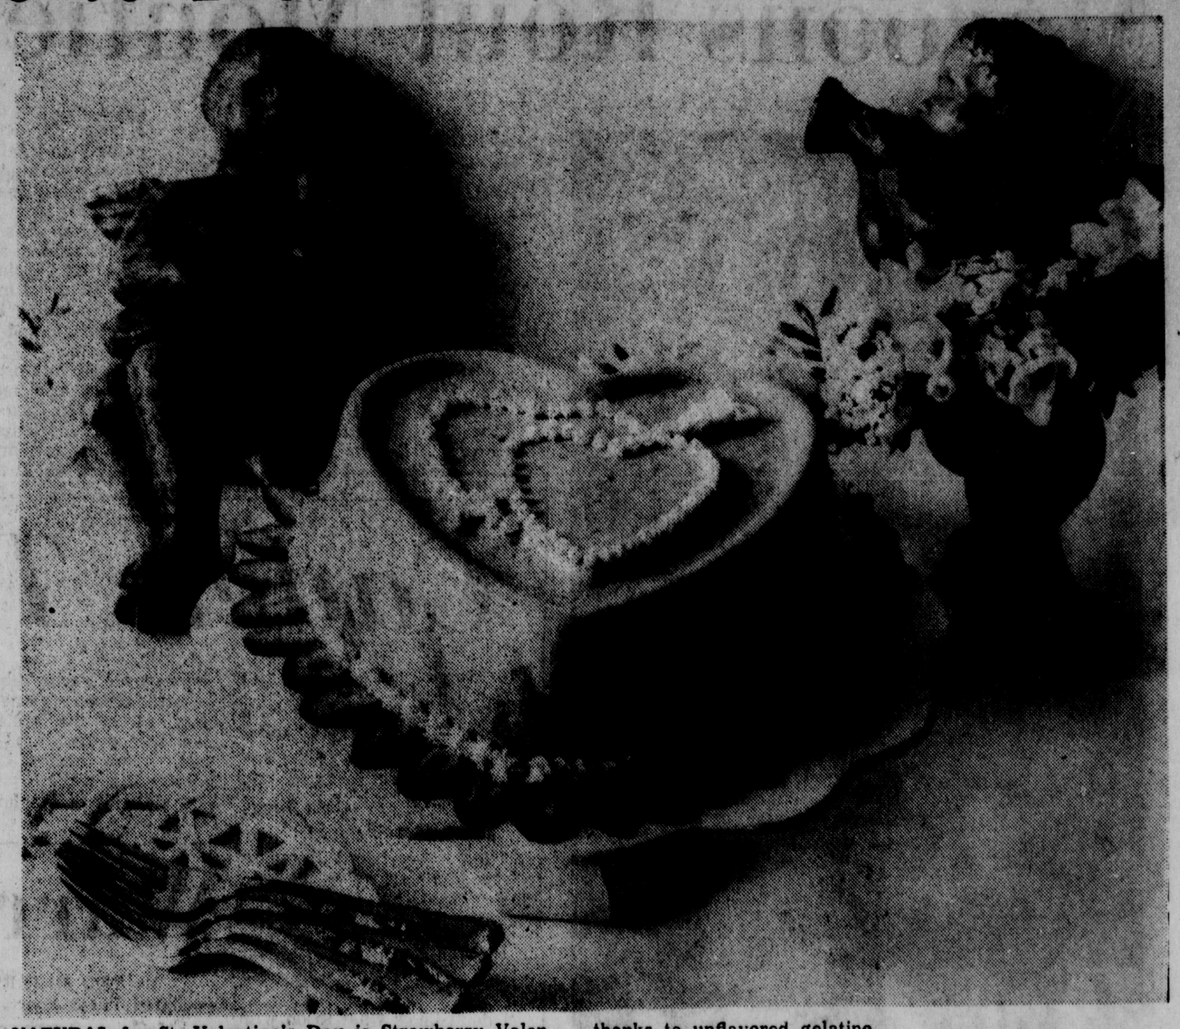

If you have no heart mold, make this dessert in a lovely crystal bowl, or other treasured server. The pink color will convey the spirit of the day, and the taste and texture are unfailingly festive.

Strawberry Valentine Mousse

Two envelopes unflavored gelatine
One cup milk
One-eighth teaspoon salt
Two packages (ten ounces strawberries, partially thawed
One cup sour cream
Three egg whites
One-fourth cup sugar

Sprinkle gelatine over milk in saucepan. Place over low heat; stir constantly until gelatin dissolves, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Add salt and strawberries; stir until strawberries are completely thawed. Add sour cream; stir until blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry; gradually add sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into strawberry mixture. Turn into 7-cup heart-shaped or other mold. Chill several hours or overnight. Unmold. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and strawberries.

YIELD: 6 servings.

A NATURAL for St. Valentine's Day is Strawberry Valentine Mousse featuring the natural flavor of strawberries, thanks to unflavored gelatine.

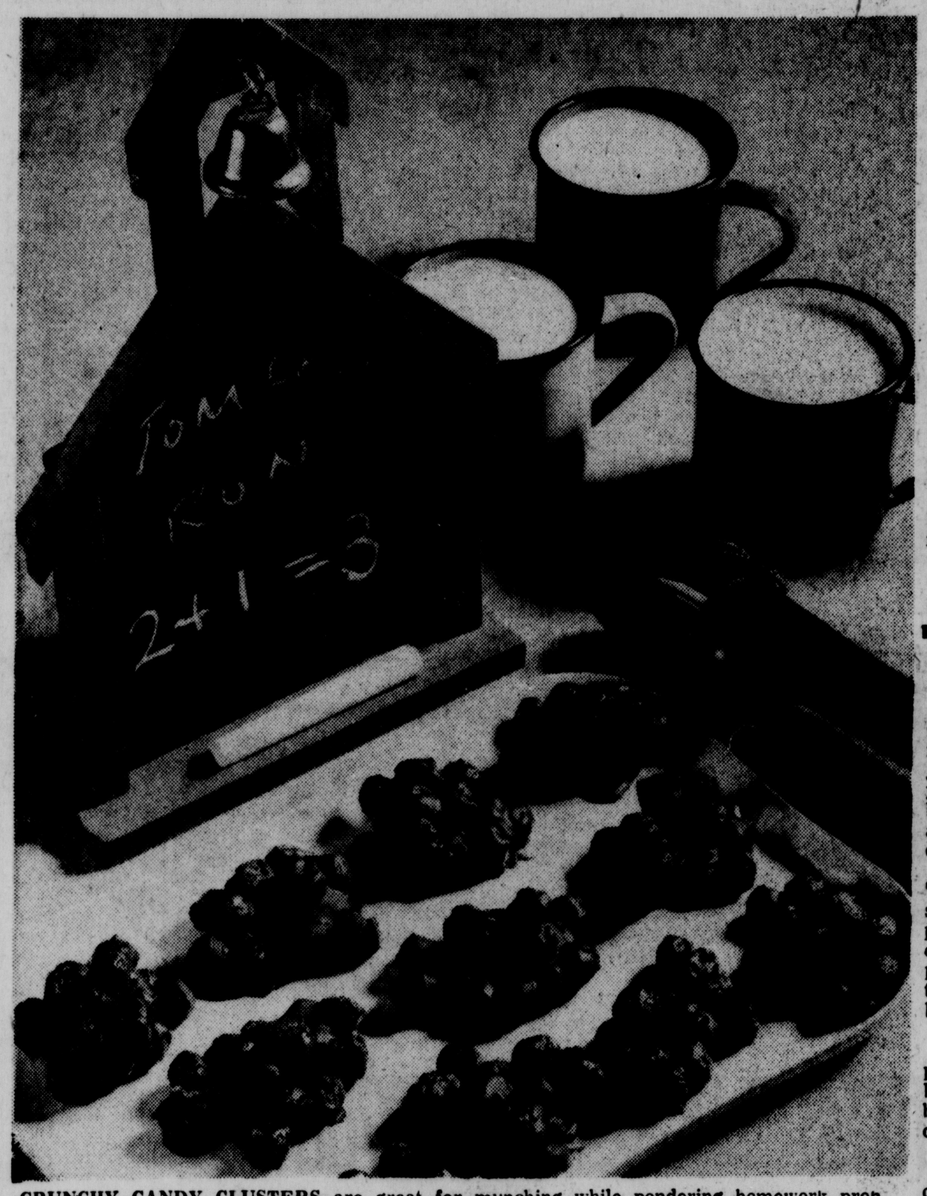

After-School Snack: It's Elementary

What child doesn't love to arrive home from school to find a tasty homemade snack waiting? So anticipate that after-school demand with wholesome, energy-giving treats like Crunchy Candy Clusters; they're sure to inspire small would be scholars to real afternoon academics.

These delicious confections are a breeze to make. They require just three ingredients — crunchy, sweet peanut butter cereal, miniature marshmallows and melted milk chocolate bars. The candy mixture is dropped onto waxed paper to form clusters, and is chilled 'til firm.

Crunchy Candy Clusters wait in the refrigerator for the after-school rush. When the youngsters burst through the door, it's so easy to set out a plateful of the tempting candies along with mugs of frosty cold milk. "Kids" of all ages, from the crayon crowd to adult midnight oilers, will like the real peanut butter flavor of the crunchy cereal combined with popular chocolate and marshmallows.

Older children will enjoy making this simple confection themselves, and perhaps sharing the experience with a friend. One melts chocolate while the other measures cereal and marshmallows; stir, drop and chill. Then everyone samples.

CRUNCHY CANDY CLUSTERS are great for munching while pondering homework problems. These tasty confections made with peanut butter, cereal, provide extra energy to last at least 'til dinner time.

CRUNCHY CLUSTERS

Makes 18 candy clusters

Two cups crunchy, sweet peanut butter cereal
One cup miniature marshmallows
Six one and three-eighths ounce milk chocolate bars

Place cereal and marshmallows in greased bowl. Melt chocolate bars in top of double boiler, over hot (not boiling) water.

Pour chocolate over peanut butter cereal and marshmallows; stir to coat evenly. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls onto waxed paper. Chill until firm.

Food Ideas

Orange marmalade makes a flavorful and attractive glaze for ham. Add a little orange juice and brown sugar to it; you'll need half as much brown sugar as marmalade and only a few tablespoons of the orange juice.

• • •

Some good cooks like to simmer shrimp in beer — a pound of shrimp to a 12-ounce can of beer. Peppercorns and bay leaf, celery tops and parsley springs may be added to the beer.

• • •

Dip well-drained canned pineapple slices in fritter batter and deep-fat fry until brown; serve with ham to company.

• • •

Before serving buttered diced cooked carrots add a tablespoon or so of capers to them. Interesting combination!

He Tickled the Sweet Tooth for a Nickle

Next to lacy cards the most popular way of saying "I love you" on Valentine's Day is with a big heart-shaped box of candy.

That millions of mothers, wives and girl friends can look forward to such "sweet" sentiments today can be attributed to a man who was not a candy manufacturer but a retailer determined to bring the better varieties of candy within the reach of the ordinary customer.

Near the turn of the century good candy carried a wholesale price of 20 cents to a dollar a pound. Before it reached the buying public it went from the manufacturer to a middleman who either boxed it — plain or fancy — or left it in a bulk state and then solid it to a retailer.

So in the 1880's when Johnny went to purchase candy for his Mom on Valentine's Day it was usually with a few months' savings in his pocket if he wanted anything attractively boxed for the special occasion. A man called Frank W. Woolworth changed all of that, however. He brought the price of good candy down to where today Johnny can purchase at any store a box of creamy chocolates at a price the average youngster can afford.

Woolworth was the first retailer to really break through the middleman and purchase items sold in his stores directly from the manufacturer. As he built up his chain of Five-And-Ten Cent stores he was determined to one day sell quality candy at five cents a quarter-pound. Manufacturers laughed at the idea but those repeated rebuffs only spurred his determination. Good candy couldn't even be made for 20 cents a pound, they told him. "But I intend to sell large quantities," he said, "and that ought to bring your costs down."

After much searching he finally found a manufacturer willing to go along with his idea. He showed Woolworth a list of several varieties of candy which could be made to sell for 20 cents a pound, with a small margin of profit. Woolworth immediately ordered one hundred pounds of candy for each of his stores chocolate creams, marshmallows and hard candies.

Woolworth's store managers weren't too happy with the idea. They all protested that candy was perishable and hard to handle. The public wouldn't buy it in a five-and-ten-cent store, they said. The great Woolworth retailing talent went to work and he sent out detailed instructions on how to weigh, display and sell the candy, and designated a certain Saturday morning as the date of an opening sale. By nightfall on that Saturday every last piece of candy was gone and the stores were clamoring for more.

That was the beginning of one of the most popular lines ever tried in the Woolworth chain. The once small manufacturer who believed in Woolworth's idea went on to open a large factory and over the years other candy manufacturers fell into line. Today Woolworth stores sell some 250,000,000 pounds of candy a year with profits that run in the millions. Along with bulk candy, the traditional boxed chocolates have become available at lower and lower prices, thanks to the mass purchasing power of a man who tickled a nation's sweet tooth for a nickle.

Maroons Rout Monties to Even DUSO Record

MONTICELLO

Kingston High School's Fighting Maroons proved to be too powerful for host Monticello in a DUSO league basketball tilt as the visitors posted a 76-51 win. Kingston is now 2-2 in league competition and is 10-4 on the season. The Monties are 0-5 in the DUSO and 2-10 overall.

KHS JVs also won, 40-38. Tom Turco had 20 points.

Herman Simon, 5-9 guard for Kingston, was once again the scoring leader for the winners. Simon tossed in 24 markers in about two and one-half quarters of play. Simon had 18 of his game-high total in the first half. He played about three minutes of the third quarter as the KHS reserves took over.

Herman has now played in seven games and is averaging about 21.5 points-per-game. He has hit for a total of 151 markers, including 30 points against Newburgh and 31 against Amsterdam.

Tony Adams, 6-5, sophomore center, also had an outstanding night for Coach Mike Rienzo's quintet. Adams had many rebounds and fired in 19 points, playing about the same amount of time as Simon.

Chis Cummings had 18 points to take high-game honors for the losers.

Kingston was just too strong overall for the host team as the winners bolted to a 22-12 lead at the end of the first quarter. Simon really started to pour it on in the second period as he hit on three 22-foot jump shots. He then started to thread the needle with pin-point passes to Adams, Chuck Jackson and Vino Platts.

When Simon missed the basket, Adams was right there to pick off the carom and drill it back in. Adams was called for goal-tending once in the tilt as he pinned a Monticello shot against the backboards. The winners took a 65-36 advantage at the half.

Rienzo kept the starting five in for about three minutes of play in the third quarter and then went heavily to his bench. The KHS reserves managed to keep the 25-to-30 point lead secure for the rest of the game.

"It's difficult to appraise a game like this," said Rienzo. "We played well against the Monticello zone and were patient early. However, when we were way ahead, the boys started to play too much individually and the game became a ragged affair," he concluded.

Cadets Topple Coleman, 60-49

RHINECLIFF

A taller and hotter shooting Cardinal Farley quintet handed Coleman its 10th loss of the season here Tuesday, 60-49, and Coach Bill DuBois of the Kingston five wasn't happy.

"I felt it was one of the worst refereed games we've played," DuBois said, but he conceeded that the officiating hurt both sides. Meanwhile the JAC mentor continued to moan about the Statesmen's inability to put the ball in the basket.

"I don't know what to do with them," lamented DuBois. Surmising that his players had developed a losing attitude, DuBois thought his squad had the potential to beat Farley but with the Cadets hitting on 45 per cent of their shots to the Statesmen's 36 per cent it was no dice.

The loss was sealed by the off night star guard Don Hastings was having. Usually counted on to score at least in double figures, the Coleman captain netted just five points. And his two field goals were both layups as Hastings' long bombs kept bouncing off of the foreign rims.

Roger DuPray and John Greeran were Farley's big men. The latter scored a game high 18 points, 15 in the second half when the game was still in doubt. The former kept the Cadets going in the first two periods with all of his final total of 10 markers.

Johnny Machione led Coleman with 14, mainly on a variety of driving attempts. Bill Kracji had nine and John Jasinski added eight.

"Our zone press wasn't effective," observed Assistant Coach Les Lombardi, "and we had too many turnovers."

The Cadets moved their record to 6-4 while Coleman's ten defeats have come in 13 games. Both teams are off until next Tuesday when the scene shifts to the Statemen's Hurley Avenue gymnasium for a rematch.

REBOUNDS: The Coleman JV's were swept by a flu bug, but those who stayed healthy managed to topple the junior Cadets, 44-32. Five Statesmen shared in the point honors with eight apiece. Fran O'Neal, Ed Mathieu, Mike Jasinski, Tom Ryan, and Kevin Ryan spearheaded the winners attack to push the Coleman log to 7-6. Bob Gill led Farley with 12 . . . Bob Dietz hit for 16 points as the JAC frosh best Onteora, 36-25. It was Coleman's seventh win.

Warriors Make Like Bricklayers

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Al McGuire, coach of Marquette's top-ranked college basketball team, likened his unbeaten squad to a bunch of bricklayers today.

Marquette fell on Wisconsin like a bunch of bricks 89-75 Tuesday night for the Warriors' 29th straight victory and a season mark of 17-0.

"We're like bricklayers, we just want to build a better house," McGuire commented. "We got a couple of quick turns early in the game and they never recovered.

Led by Gary Brell's 30 points the Warriors took an 8-0 lead and widened it to 39 points at 74-35 in the second half before the Badgers reduced the final margin.

"They're the best team we've played in three years," said John Powless, Wisconsin coach. "They should definitely be No. 1. They have more poise and they are quicker than when we lost to them by three points last December."

The score of that game in the Milwaukee Classic was 72-69.

Onrushing Michigan, 20th-ranked in this week's Associated Press poll, won its 11th of its last 12 games by humbling Purdue 85-69. The Wolverines took over the lead in the Big Ten at 5-0 as Iowa upset 15th-ranked Illinois 92-84.

Michigan pulled away from Purdue in the second half led by sophomore Henry Wilmore who scored 23 points, 15 of them after the intermission.

Fred Brown threw in a career high of 36 points to bring Iowa from behind a 10-point deficit in the Hawkeyes' victory over the Illini.

Howard Porter scored 31 points to lead 17th ranked Villanova over St. John's of New York 99-82. The victory gave Jack Kraft, coach of the Wildcats, his 200th career triumph.

Gene Phillips tossed in 45 points for his career high in leading Southern Methodist over Texas A&M 89-83 in overtime. Texas took Rice 84-68, Texas Tech downed Baylor 90-76 and Texas Christian shaded Arkansas 89-87 in other SWC games.

Dayton beat Eastern Kentucky 110-86, Centenary tripped Oklahoma City 63-55, Drake overcame DePaul 93-80, Dartmouth defeated Connecticut 69-62, Massachusetts edged Holy Cross 60-58 and Cincinnati conquered Richmond 78-71.

LSU-New Orleans, No. 1 in the AP college division poll, made it 17-0 for the season by whipping Spring Hil. 83-74 and the Keydets of Virginia Military kept their losing streak going.

Davidson trampled the Keydets 70-39. It was the Keydets' 18th straight defeat of the season and boosted their losing streak to 23 in a row, counting of carryover of five from last season.

There was a second half brawl in the Centenary-Oklahoma City game at Shreveport.

A scramble over a rebound started the fireworks that involved players on both teams brought a barrage of debris from the spectators and delayed the game 10 minutes.

Pitchers Responding

Half a dozen pitchers made up the prize catch in baseball's signing sweepstakes Tuesday while a pair of sluggers indicated they might prove more difficult to land.

Montreal right-hander Carl Morton, the National League's Rookie of the Year last season, signed his 1971 contract. So did pitchers Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman of the New York Mets, Jim Kaat and Luis Tiant of Minnesota and Jim McGlothlin of Cincinnati.

Meanwhile, Cincinnati's Tony Perez and Oakland's Reggie Jackson, a pair of long-ball hitters playing for Santurce in the Puerto Rican Winter League, said they are angling for pay hikes.

Morton, 27-year old converted outfielder who posted an 18-11 record for Montreal's NL East tailenders in 1970, received a substantial raise over last year's estimated $15,000 salary.

Seaver, the 1969 NL Cy Young Award winner who slipped from 25 to 18 victories last year, accepted a slight boost in pay that put him close to the $90,000 bracket. Teammate Koosman, 12-7 in 1970 after an early-season siege of arm trouble, signed for about $60,000.

Seaver, 18-12, was the NL's ERA (2.81) and strikeout (283) king last season.

Kaat won 14 of 24 decision for the Twins. Tiant, plagued by arm problems, was 7-3.

McGlothlin, 11-11 for the Reds, signed with the NL champs along with two rookies.

Pittsburgh signed three infielders, including Dave Cash who batted .314 as a 1970 rookie and infielders Hal Lanier and Alan Gallagher were among four San Francisco signees.

Perez, who swatted 42 homers and delivered 122 runs for Cincinnati, said he wants $110,000 for his signature. "I expect the Reds to pay me what I have asked for," the husky third baseman said.

Blazers Drop Bucks, 123-111

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a big night for Rick Adelman and the Portland Trail Blazers in the National Basketball Association. They upset the Milwaukee Bucks 123-111.

Adelman made three steals in the closing minutes to set up the Tuesday night heroics at Portland. At the end, the crowd of 9,040 gave the Trail Blazers a standing ovation for their first victory of the season over the Bucks.

In other NBA action, the New York Knicks turned back Cincinnati 115-108, Philadelphia nipped Boston 108-105, Detroit shaded Baltimore 116-113, Chicago pounded Seattle 118-101, San Francisco edged Atlanta 101-99, Los Angeles crushed San Diego 133-105 and Cleveland humbled Buffalo for the sixth straight time 101-91.

In the American Basketball Association, the Floridians whipped Carolina 110-102, Pittsburgh tripped the New York Nets 119-111, Virginia nipped Memphis 114-111 and Kentucky clipped Texas 122-116.

Portland squandered a 65-48 halftime lead but bounced back to win on Adelman's steals in the last four minutes.

Jim Barnett paced the Trail Blazers with 27 points. Lew Alcindor was high for Milwaukee with 38 points, but finished with only nine rebounds. He was double- teamed most of the game by LeRoy Ellis and Dale Schlueter.

John Warren and John Johnson shared the spotlight for usually hapless Cleveland, which has managed a mere four victories in 49 games against the rest of the league.

Warren hit 16 of his 22 points in the first half as the Cavaliers opened a 57-42 lead over Buffalo, the game played before a meager turnout of 1,373 in Rochester, N.Y.

Johnson took over in the second half with 15 of his 21 plus a couple of crucial assists. Don May led Buffalo with 34.

Veteran center Willis Reed of New York and rookie pivotman Sam Lacey of Cincinnati played to a standoff— each hitting 27 points to lead their clubs—but Reed's eight quick points midway in the final period enabled the Knicks to breakaway from the Royals for the victory, their seventh in eight starts.

ANXIOUS EYES are on the ball as it heads for Cincinnati's basket in Knicks-Royal game. Under basket is Knicks' Willis Reed, who scored 27 points and collected personal high of 33 rebounds for regular season game. Behind Reed are Sam Lacey (44) and Charlie Paulk of Royals. It was Knicks seventh win in last eight games. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Club to Fete Boog Powell

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Baltimore Orioles first basemen Boog Powell will be honored by the Columbus Touchdown Club Friday night as the "Baseball Player of the Year."

Powell, the most valuable player in the American League last year, topped the 100 mark in runs batted in and hit over 35 home runs for the third straight year.

He was a mainstay of the Orioles' five-game victory over Cincinnati in the World Series.

Waite Hoyt, former major league pitcher and long-time announcer of the Cincinnati Reds games, will also be honored at the TDC banquet.

Hoyt won 237 games in his 22-year major league career and pitched in seven World Series.

This Poll Business

CHARLES J. TIANO

Are basketball coaches, teams, students and rooters really unimpressed by polls? We don't think so. The poll is always the third party in the arena, exerting relentless pressure on the combatants, whether they admit or not.

Let's take Newburgh Academy, for example. The incredible Goldbacks humiliated Middletown High, 128-20, just a few days after the New York State Sports Writers Association, in its collective wisdom, had relegated the Goldbacks to the No. 2 spot in the state poll, behind St. Agnes High of Rockville Centre, Long Island.

Did NFA murder the Middies because they were miffed over the No. 2 rating and were trying real, real hard? Not so, explained Newburgh Coach Mickey Burkoski. But in his immediate reaction to NFA's slight decline, the one-time all-everything at Newburgh had other thoughts on the subject.

FIRST, BURKOSKI told our scholastic expert, Mort Laffin, that "it's nice to be rated No. 1, but we don't pay too much attention to the polls." Moments later, in the same telephone conversation, Burkoski re-shaped his thinking.

"It's the first time I ever heard of a No. 1 team being dropped while still maintaining an undefeated record," lamented Burkoski. He had a solid point. "Maybe," he went on, "the voters are just interested in point scoring. If that's the case, we'll just have to try and give them something to think about." A threat? Maybe.

Many observers and not a few fans saw a correlation between the large NFA miff and the subsequent destruction of the hapless Middies. Here again, a case can be made from several viewpoints, but more of that later.

THE SPORTS PUNDITS based their demotion of NFA on the strength of St. Agnes' 72-67 victory over De Matha High, a perennial high school powerhouse in Maryland. There were sly jobs, too, that the Newburgh schedule was not impressive enough. In other words, St. Agnes was beating tougher opponents and deserved the rating.

By the time certain aspects of the St. Agnes win over De Matha had been exposed, it was too late. The Middies had been destroyed.

Against the Middies, Newburgh was a team inspired, a team on a mission, it seemed. The first quarter ended in an unbelievable 31-0. It was 71-8 at halftime and 93-17 when Burkoski made his first two lineup changes.

There were extenuating circumstances that dictated Burkoski's decision to stay with his regulars as long as he did, the bleeding hearts notwithstanding. The team had not played several days prior to the Middletown game and would be idled several days after. The coach felt the players needed the work to stay sharp.

THERE IS A SCHOOL of thought says it's bad strategy to manipulate a lineup just to keep the score down. First string teams that are yanked in such situations sometimes never regain their momentum. It's risky business.

There comes to mind a conversation we had with a Dutchess county coach about ratings and what they do to rated teams and the opposition. His rejoiner was a classic, "please, deliver me from any rating-conscious team."

Let's not kid oursèlves about polls and ratings. They are part of the American sports package. The public is thoroughly poll-oriented and ratings are extremely important to coaches, teams, the school and community.

Who can ever forget the sensation created by Ulster County Community College when its basketball team was invited to its first Region XV competition and achieved national ranking? Coach Mike Perry's Senators turned this town upside down. Community spirit soared. It was a sports happening of major magnitude.

IF THE FOLKS down Newburgh way try to tell me they're not concerned about whether Newburgh Academy is No. 1 or No. 2. I figure they're putting me on. If Kingston High were in contention for No. 1 rating in New York State, I would be rooting hard for the Maroons. I want my home town team to be No. 1.

Can Kingston High beat the mighty Goldbacks when they play a return engagement on Feb. 26? It is within the realm of possibility. Didn't the Jets beat the Colts in the Super Bowl? Didn't Johansson knock out Floyd Patterson? We could give you more but those two will suffice.

Between now and Feb. 26, the watchword at Kingston High, from the top brass to the lowliest freshman, should be "Beat Newburgh!" Eat, think, sleep and dream nothing but "Beat Newburgh" and you know, it might just happen.

AND, IF IT DOESN'T happen on Feb. 26, well, let's look into the crystal and see what the 1971-72 DUSO basketball season has in store for us. Newburgh Academy graduates its entire fantastic first five next June. If Coach Mike Rienzo's current edition of Maroons stays intact, know where we might be this time next season? Right back in the ratings business! Only this time Mike Rienzo will have to decide how to handle them.

There is a basketball powerhouse in the making at Kingston High and nobody is more acutely conscious of that fact than Coach Mickey Burkoski. That's why he wants another victory over Kingston's sophomore-laden squad. It could be his last in a few years.

All of which leads us to the conclusion that polls, with all their physical and sociological ramifications, are where you find them. Like right here in Kingston — next year.

St. Agnes Holds No. 1 Rating

SYRACUSE

St. Agnes of Rockville Centre, L.I. which dethroned Newburgh Academy last week, is again the No. 1 high school basketball team in the state, according to the weekly ratings of the New York State Sports Writers Association announced today.

Mount Vernon is third, followed by Philip Schuyler of Albany and Great Neck North. St. Agnes is 9-0, Newburgh and Mount Vernon 11-0, with Schuyler and Great Neck, 12-0.

Since the last ratings, St. Agnes defeated St. Mary, 102-60; Newburgh topped Kingston, 104-64 and Mount Vernon routed Lakeland, 118-57. Schuyler routed neighboring Bishop Gibbons, 109-79.

Syracuse Sacred Heart of Syracuse (9-1) is the top rated small high school in the state. Ravena High (12-0) is rated 7th and Highland Falls (10-0) is 8th rated. Catskill High (10-1) drew honorable mention.

SIDEBARS -- Judging by last week's scores, the top-rated teams are leaving their opponents for dead. All three scored over 100 points. The Newburgh score against Middletown, 128-20, missed the state record margin by one point. St. Peters of Saratoga beat St. Johnsville, 128-19, in the 1962-63 season for a 109-point spread... Mt. Vernon's 118 points against Lakeland is an all-time Westchester county scoring record, breaking the old mark of 117. The NYSSWA pollsters refuse comment on these mammoth scores, and does not encourage them.

KWBA Tourney Opens March 6

KINGSTON

Kingston Woman's Bowling Association has announced a bonus inducement to spur team entries for its 30th annual championship tournament which opens Saturday, March 6, at Mid-City Lanes.

Mrs. Nell Glennon, the association president, said free team entries and singles and doubles entries will be awarded under a formula.

In all-women and mixed leagues with 30 or more KWBA regular members, a free team entry will be given to each with a 100 per cent team entry. In all-women and mixed leagues with less than 30 KWBA regular members, a free doubles and singles entry will be awarded each league with 100 per cent entry.

Each qualifying league will draw lots to determine which team wins a free entry.

Team events will be rolled on Sunday, March 7; Saturday, March 13, and Sunday, March 21. Doubles are set for March 6, with singles on March 14 and March 20.

Eighty per cent handicap will be used, with averages official as of Dec. 20, 1970. Deadline for entries is Feb. 13.

Classification and scratch figures are: Teams—Class A, 750-up; Class B, (650-749), 760 scratch; Class C (649- and under), 660 scratch; Doubles—300-up, scratch; 260-99, 310 scratch; 259-under 270 scratch; Singles—150-up, scratch; 130-149, 160 scratch; 129-under, 140 scratch.

KHS Lassies Snap Onteora Win Streak

PINE HILL

One of the longest winning streaks in the history of area high school sports was broken Tuesday at the Bellayre Ski Center as the girl skiers of Onteora went down to defeat at the hands of visiting Kingston. The Maroon Lasses posted a total time score of 200.3 to 209.3 for the losers.

In another stunning reversal, the Onteora boys team gained its first win of the season, downing the visitors, 182.2 to 195.4.

The Onteora girls were handicapped going into Tuesday's action as their two top performers, Liz McGrath and Judy Hevesi, were sidelined with illness.

However, Kingston got outstanding efforts from freshmen Nancy Kolln and Muffy Brigham as they posted a one-two finish. Kolln's time was a neat 37.4 Brigham crossed the line in 38.1.

"Our girls were undefeated over two years and have been Section Nine champs the last two seasons," said Onteora Coach Rick Barthel. "All good things must come to an end, though. The Kingston team is a good one. I was quite pleased with our boys, they really did well. I would say that our girls' record was right around 18 straight, possibly 20," he concluded.

Jim McGrath and Mark Jennings finished one-two for the Onteora boys. Kingston aces Jim Woodard and Pete Fowler fell on the course and didn't figure in the final scoring.

"I'm pleased that our girls won," said KHS mentor Tony Badalato. "It might have been different, however, if McGrath and Hevesi could have participated for the Indians. They are really great skiers and their loss was too tough for Onteora to overcome. Nancy Kolln and the rest of our young girls' team have really been improving and I'm proud of them. The boys, however, just can't seem to get untracked," concluded Badalato.

The KHS boys are now 4-2, and the girls are 3-1. Onteora boys have a 1-4 record, the girls are 4-1 on the season.

OCS Gains 7th UCAL Win

WALLKILL — The Ontoera Indians, leaders of the Ulster County Athletic League, recovered from a first period scare and went on to defeat host Wallkill, 80-50 in a UCAL basketball tilt Tuesday night.

Onteora is now 7-1 in UCAL play and 9-3 overall. The league-leaders travel to New Paltz Friday night for a pivotal UCAL tilt. New Paltz is 6-2 in league play. Wallkill is 1-8.

The Indians got off to a slow start. And, as a result, Bill McAfee and Company were able to stay within three points an the winners led, 13-10 at buzzer.

The second quarter was another story, however, as Dan Smith, star center for Onteora began to control the boards and fired perfect outlet passes to Joe Bush and Dan Brown on the fast break. Bush had nine of his game high total 21 in the second period. Brown hit 10 of 18 in that period.

Smith only scored nine points in the tilt but pulled down 17 caroms.

Onteora took a 36-24 lead at the halftime buzzer.

In the third quarter, Vlad Hoyt reallly came to life for the winners. Hoyt had been held scoreless in the first half, content in his role as playmaker. However, Coach Ron Pape turned him loose in the second half and Hoyt responded with 19 points.

"We started slowly," said Pape after the tilt. "However, we really started to roll when Smith began to hit the boards. Our fast break started to work well as he picked off the rebounds," he stated.

Pape continued: "The Friday game with New Paltz will probably be the deciding contest of the season. If we win it, we should be able to hang on and go all the way. If New Paltz wins, it'll go to the wire. They're an outstanding ball club and have really turned around" he concluded.

Allen's 116 Sets Record

SAUGERTIES — Six men hit double figures as the Ethan Allen Bus Line cagers scored 116 points to defeat Naccarato Insurance, 116-82, in the Saugerties Ahletic Association Basketball Division. The 116-point explosion set a new league record in that department. The old record of 112 was held by the Raiders.

Stan Henderson paced the winners with 36 points. He hit 12 of 13 from the foul line and had 25 points in the first half. Henderson is the league's scoring leader with 31.9 points per game.

Frank Allen added 25, Ron Lindsay hit 14, Bill Tomaseski and Mel, Williams chipped in with 12 apiece while Al Cook added 11 for the winners.

Gene Bruno and Al Hrdlicka hit 24 apiece and Jack Naccarato flipped in 21 for the losers.

Naccarato's kept the game close only in the first quarter when Allen's ground out a 29-24 lead. After that it was all Allen's, who led 60-39 at the half and 88-60 at the three quarter mark. The Bus Line closed out with a 28-22 edge in the fourth quarter.

In other games, Anchorage topped the Irish, 71-66. Tim Powens had 28 for the winners. Bob Whitney dropped in 17 for the losers; Ron Thomas' 20 points and Gary Griener's 19 led the Raiders to an 85-68 win over Ferroxcube. Peter Steinfurth hit 32 for the losers. Raiders led 21-20 at the quarter and 39-31 at halftime.

Saturday's Schedule has Anchorage meeting Ethan Allen Bus Lines at 1 p.m. Ferroxcube faces Naccarato's in the second tilt while the Raiders take on the Irish in the third game. The Radiers are currently in first place with a 7-0 record. The Busmen are right behind at 6-1.

Rondout Defeats Red Hook, 65 to 52

RED HOOK — Ron Hall flipped in 21 points and Bruce Burr added 15 as the Ganders of Rondout Valley High defeated host Red Hook, 65 52, in a non league contest Tuesday night. Red Hook is now 4-8 overall and 4-5 in the Dutchess County Bi-Valley League.

"Rondout had a decided height advantage," said losing coach Al Mallana. "They took a 35-28 edge in the rebounding department, most of them coming at key times. Our press kept us close, but we trailed by eight points most of the way," he concluded.

Burr and Hall did a fine job underneath for the winners.

Greg Fister hit well from the outside for the Raiders as he managed 18 points. Brian Becker hit 12 and Scott Martin added 11 for the losers.

Arlington Matmen Score Over Sawyers

SAUGERTIES — The always powerful Arlington High School wrestlers were too much for home standing Saugerties here Tuesday as the Admirals rolled to a 42-8 victory.

Coach Larry Dake's Sawyers notched only two individual wins in dropping their sixth meet in eight outings this season. Jim Redder at 98 lbs. and Bob Houtman at 145 lbs. were the Saugerties victors.

Redder decisioned Warren Skov, 9-4, in the meet's opening bout. Houtman was winner by a fall over Kevin Kennedy in two minutes 49 seconds.

Two Arlington triumphs were by forefeit.

The Sawyers get back into action on Saturday against Cardinal Farley in Rhinecliff.

The summaries:

Ellies Blast Highlanders

ELLENVILLE — Ellenville High School overcame a first quarter deficit to whip Highland, 74-56, in a non-league basketball game here Tuesday.

Reserve guard Herminio Santiago came off the bench to give the Blue Devils a needed lift after they had fallen behind 16-5 in the first eight minutes. Ellenville went on to outscore the Highlanders 24-7 in the second quarter to take a 29-23 halftime lead.

The visitors entered the game as one of the hot teams of late in Ulster County Athletic League play. But Ronnie Monroe, the loop's leading scorer, could manage only eight points against Ellenville and although his brother Perry was hiting a game high 22. Ron's usual abundant total was missed.

Ed Younger led the Blue Dvils with 21 points. Alfie Abel chipped in 18. Harold Countryman was second best for Highland with 12 points.

Highland hosts Rondout in a UCAL game Friday.

Ellenville Flips KHS On Mats

KINGSTON — Kingston High School wrestlers, with five members of the varsity flattened by the flue, went down to a 42-5 defeat at the hands of visiting Ellenville in a non-league contest Tuesday. Kingston is now 3-5-1 overall and will travel to Liberty Friday for another contest.

Regulars John Ollive, Tom Goss, Jim Reedy, Norm Buzzanco and Charles Kaune were missing from the lineup and KHS Coach Ed Pfieffer is hoping that they will be ready for Friday's action.

"We were really in trouble without these boys," said Pfieffer. "The boys who moved up really tried, but it was just too much to hope for. I don't know how the match would have come out if they had been on hand. I'm sure that it would have much, much closer," he concluded.

Wilfred Ortiz defeated Rich Ellison in the 119 pound class and John Mizell picked up a 10-5 decision over Bruce Myer in the heavyweight division for Kingston's only two victories.

The results:

Ellenville 42 — Kingston 5

New Tennis Tour $ Million Affair

DALLAS (upi)—World Championship Tennis Monday announced that its 20-city million dollar tennis tour will start next week in Philadelphia and wind up Nov. 8-14 in Houston with the eight top winners meeting in a separate $100,000 tourney in New York late in November.

Each of the 20 tournaments will have a $50,000 prize list and points will be awarded for each round won in the tournament with the top eight point-getters earning a berth in the World Championship of Tennis, Nov. 19, 20, 21 and 26 in New York with a $50,000 first prize.

Mike Davies, the former British Davis Cupper who is executive director of millionaire Lamar Hunt's stable of 32 contract pros, said that it was felt the tournament plan was the "fair way" to determine a champion.

"Two weeks on grass at Wimbledon or on clay in Paris makes for a good tournament, but not a true world championship," he said.

Davies pointed out that Australian Rod Laver, who won $201,453 last season, failed to win any of the so-called "big four" crowns, but that his earnings spoke for themselves.

Ten points will be awarded for each championship, seven for finalists, four for losing semifinalists, two for losing quarterfinalists and one for second round losers.

Loyalty Day Is May 1

The Loyalty Day Committee of Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and its Auxiliary announces the scheduling of Loyalty Day in Saugerties Saturday, May 1.

Included in the program for this year are several church services, a large parade through the village ending with ceremonies at Cantine Field, and a dance that evening at the VFW Post, Livingston Street.

This is the 19th year in which Post 5034 and its Auxiliary have sponsored Loyalty Day in Saugerties, And this year more than ever, the word loyalty has a special significance for all Americans, as well as residents of the Saugerties area. In conjunction with this, the Loyalty Day Committee has adopted the slogan "Loyalty Is Everyone's Business. Support Your VFW for Loyalty Day."

To raise funds for this important day, the Loyalty Day Committee has scheduled several events.

The Ladies' Auxiliary has scheduled a bake sale for Saturday, at the Grand Union, Market Street. The sale starts promptly at 9 a.m.

Saturday, March 6 there will be a spaghetti dinner held at the VFW Post, Livingston Street. There will be three servings, at 5, 6 and 7 p.m.

Saturday, March 27, there will be a dance at the VFW Hall. Details will be forthcoming.

Also planned is a drive to collect newspapers and old batteries. This will be held early in February, with exact dates and times of collection for each section of Saugerties to be announced.

The committee, consisting of Co-Chairmen Mrs. Mary Aiello and James Armstrong; Secretary Dorothy Wood and Treasurer James Baughman and many other participating members and its Auxiliary, hopes everyone will take this opportunity to express his loyalty to a country where liberty is more than propaganda, where the Stars and Stripes flies over free men.

Lions Schedule Tourney

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties Lions Club has scheduled a basketball jubilee double header Saturday night, Feb. 13 at Saugerties High School gymnasium.

As previously announced, coach Richard McConekey's Lions Club Cuties will be pitted against the Woodstock Wildmen.

The second contest of the evening will feature two local super teams, The Irish against Naccarato's Insurance, both Saugerties Athletic Association teams. Tickets are available for this event from all Lions Club members and the proceeds will be used for the Lions Club merit scholarship award.

At a previous dinner meeting Lions Club district governor was present to welcome Edward Hellenschmidt, Vitautas Mecionis and Richard Mc Conekey as new members. On the same evening Chevron awards were made to several local Lions for services as follows:

Rodney Ball and Robert A. Snyder, 35 years; Joseph Crotty, 30 years; Glenford Teetsel, Andrew Vozdick, Albert Giannotti and Hugo Knauert, 20 years; Frank Costello, John Kerns, Harold C. Bauser, Joseph Wipper, Frark D. Greco, Louis P. Francello, William D. Brinnier and Bernard L. Rinaldi, 15 years; Henry Breitenbach, Dr. Irving Dreishpoon, William farrell, Joseph Bosco, Stuart Buchan, Kenneth L. Harder and Vernon A. Benjamin, 10 years.

Harder, chairman of the Saugerties Lions Club men's Golf tournament announced that plans were underway for the annual golf tournament scheduled in June at the Sawyerkill Country Club. Committees have been formed and are formulating plans for the popular golf tournament which last year included over 97 players.

Lion President, Thomas Martin, has issued an appeal to the public to support the Lions Club basketball double header for an evening of fun under a worthy banner and for an important cause.

Glasco PTA—Drug Program

GLASCO

Approximately 130 people were concerned and interested enough in educating themselves on the topic of drugs to attend the recent meeting of Glasco PTA.

The meeting was opened by three members of Boy Scout Troop 35, Frank Cashara, Ralph Grimaldi, and Anthony Rinaldi; who presented the flag and led the Pledge of Allegiance.

A short business meeting followed during which a plaque was presented to the Glasco school. The plaque is an exact replica of the standard placed on the moon. Only a few plaques were made and the Glasco PTA was able to obtain it through the efforts of Donald Babbitt. Raymond Cadmus presented Mrs. Vera Mack, librarian for the Glasco School, with a check for $100 to be used for the school library. Most of the monies was raised through donations received on a night of Christmas Caroling.

Miss May Evans, director of pupil personal services for the Saugerties School System, began the program for the evening by explaining the work that is presently done in the schools in developing awareness of drugs and drug abuse through health and safety programs. The State Legislature mandated that drugs be taught in grades 4-12 and curriculum guides to aid teachers were developed. To further prepare the faculty and staff of the Saugerties School System to handle the problem of drugs the school system is planning an in-teacher day on drug education.

The Rev. John Needham represented the Saugerties Narcotic Guidance Council. He pointed out that the SNGC is a branch of the State Narcotic Control Commission and consists of a group of concerned citizens from different walks of life who volunteer their time to combat the evils of drugs. The council aims to educate parents about drugs, to help prevent and assist drug users and also works with the youth to develop activities for the youth.

Those present divided into three smaller groups to attend informal discussions with the three representives of the Renaissance Project of Ellenville, Thomas Bugda, Carl W. Morgan and William Washington. It was pointed out by one of the speakers that he felt that drugs hadn't necessarily been his problem but that drugs were a symptom of his problem. All three speakers felt if there was love, concern, and understanding between parents and youth that there would be less of a problem of drug abuse.

The next activities for Glasco PTA will be volleyball games between the Glasco faculty and mothers and fathers of students attending the Glasco School. The games will be held on Friday, Feb. 5 at the Glasco School Gym at 7 p.m. Parents and children are invited and urged to participate.

College Credit Courses

SAUGERTIES

Ulster County Community College will offer three credit courses this spring at its Evening Extension Center at the Saugerties High School, according to Ronald A. Koster, the director of continuing education.

The courses are Introduction to Criminal Justice on Monday nights, General Psychology on Tuesday nights, and Contemporary Literature on Thursday nights. Each one carries three college credits.

"We are offering these courses in Saugerties as a conveience for residents living in that area," Koster said.

There will be in person registration at the College's Stone Ridge campus on Thurday, Feb. 4, and Friday, Feb 5, from 7 to 9 p.m., and on Saturday, Feb. 6, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The spring semester classes will start on Monday, Feb. 8.

Further information about these courses, or part-time study at the college can be obtained by calling the Center of Continuing Education at the College.

SAUGERTIES AREA NEWS

Winter Carnival Plans

SAUGERTIES

Winter Carnival Weekend is scheduled for Feb. 5, 6, and 7 and will feature a dance snowmobile races, a figure skating demonstration with races and a snow sculpture contest.

The schedule is as follows:

Friday 7:30 p.m. Saugerties Youth Council and the Jaycees will co-sponsor a dance at the Youth Council's new location, Main and Partition Streets. Featured will be a live band and the crowing of the festival queen. Two runners-up will also be chosen. Girls between the ages of 14 and 24 years will be eligible. The queen will reign over the events to be held on Saturday and Sunday. She will be picked from those present at the dance. For information, call Frank Aftowicz, Saugerties.

Saturday snowmobile races will be held at Cantine Field. Races will be for Stock machines only and contestants under 18 years must have parents or guardians signature.

Registration will be held from 9 to 10:30 a.m. with the races beginning promptly at 11 a.m. Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in each class. Entry fee will be necessary.

For further information or to obtain an entry blank, contact Robert Campbell, Saugerties. This event will be free to spectators.

Sunday 2 p.m. Miss Taffy Pergament, an international and national gold medalist will put on a figure skating exhibition at the Village Rink on Main Street. The competition will follow the exhibition by this Sports Illustrated award winner and member of the People to People Sports Committee Figure Skating Team. Races for boys and girls in the following age groups will be held: under 6, 7-8, 9-10, 11-12, 13-14, and 15 and up. Events for these age groups will be sprints, distance races, and relays. Certificates and ribbons will be presented to the winners. Free hot chocolate will be served to all entrants. For further information contact Charles Lounsbury.

Also on Sunday, there will be a Snow Sculpturing Contest behind the Village Rink. Prizes for the following groups will be given: 11 and under, 12 to 18, and family-adult group. As in the past, if a family wishes to build a sculpture at home, there will be prizes awarded for this catagory (Town of Saugerties, only). A new catagory this year will be for clubs and organizations in the Town of Saugerties. They may build at any location within the town. All supplies and materials must be provided by the contestants. For information, contact Joseph Erbacher, Saugerties.

Egyptian Government Waxes Cool To Thant's Cease-Fire Extension

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Secretary-General U Thant says the Middle East peace talks at the United Nations are showing some signs of progress and the cease-fire should be extended, but Egyptian government officials appeared cool to the suggestion today.

The Cairo government withheld its official reaction, presumably waiting for President Anwar Sadat's speech to the National Assembly Thursday, the day before the six-month-old truce is to expire.

But a government spokesman, Munir Hafez, said: 'It is clear from U Thant's statement that he had nothing new on the progress of the talks." Egypt repeatedly has said it will accept no extension unless there is significant headway in discussions mediator Gunnar V. Jarring is holding with representatives of Israel, Jordan and Egypt.

Thant reported to the Security Council Tuesday that the talks are young, and issues still must be clarified. But he said he found "grounds for cautious optimism" because serious discussions were under way and "there has been some progress in the definition of their positions."

He appealed "in this very difficult and crucial stage of the discussions, to withhold fire, to exercise military restraint and to maintain the quiet which has prevailed in the area since August 1970."

Mohammed H. el-Zayyat, Egypt's chief U.N. delegate, said he would forward the appeal to Cairo. He said, however, "It is hard to see, as of now, any reasons for optimism."

Despite the official coolness to extension of the cease-fire, many observers in the Middle East feel that the truce will continue on an unofficial day-to-day basis.

The Israelis have repeatedly pledged not to fire first, and the Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem declared Tuesday it is willing to go along with Thant's appeal on the cease-fire if Egypt reciprocates.

But sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli government viewed accusations made public by Egypt Tuesday as a deliberate attempt to sabotage the peace talks. A memorandum handed to Jarring on Monday declared that Israel is refusing to comply with provisions of the Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1967 by its failure to withdraw from territory it captured in the 1967 war. The note urged the Security Council to force compliance to help Jarring work out an agreement.

The Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported today that Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who first proposed the cease-fire last summer to produce a climate conducive to negotiations, has sent another message to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad explaining "America's point of view regarding the present situation." It was Rogers' third message in two weeks to Egypt.

On the Suez and the Jordanian fronts, preparations continued Tuesday for an end to the cease-fire.

After another day of buildups on both sides of the canal, loudspeakers blared propaganda from the Egyptian side during the night, military sources said.

Amman Radio announced that Jordan's 55,000-man army was on "maximum alert" and that King Hussein's brother, Prince Hassan, supervised tank maneuvers at an undisclosed location. Officials said troops and armor have been moving toward the Jordan River cease-fire line since Saturday.

Hobart College Trial Off to Speedy Start

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y. (AP) — The trial of Hobart College on coercion charges stemming from a student-police confrontation is off to a speedy start.

At Tuesday's opening session in State Supreme Court, Sheriff Ray O. Marrow of Ontario County testified for about an hour on events surrounding the disturbance on the Hobart campus in Geneva last June 5.

Morrow, the state's leadoff witness, was called to the stand after jury selection was completed within 4½ hours and opening statements by prosecution and defense lawyers consumed another hour.

Justice Frederick M. Marshall of Buffalo, in accordance with a recently instituted jury - selection system, handled most of the questioning of potential jurors. The opposing lawyers formerly did most of the interrogating.

In his opening statement, Special Prosecutor Leon Armer told the jury of six men and six women that it must find the college guilty of "recklessly tolerating conduct on the parts of students and faculty that led to the confrontation."

Ellsworth Van Graafeiland, attorney for Hobart, stressed in his remarks that the college corporation, not individual administrators or faculty, were on trial. The distinctimn, he said, was "a legal one."

A special state grand jury convened by Gov. Rockefeller returned an indictment Dec. 18 accuring the college of preventing law - enforcement officials from carrying out their duties.

The confrontation occurred after a pre-dawn drug raid on the Hobart campus. Angry students surrounded sheriff and police cars and did not disperse until authorities agreed to release several young people arrested on narcotics charges.

College officials said the students were disturbed about the presence at the raid of Thomas "Tommy the Traveler" Tongyai, an undercover deputy planted on the campus by Morrow.

Morrow told the court Monday he had asked Hobart's then acting president, Beverley B. Causey Jr., and Dean John R.D. McKeon to try to disperse the student crowd and that they tried and failed.

The sheriff said he did not attempt himself to persuade the group to disperse.

The grand jury was to have ended its term Feb. 16, but Marshall Tuesday extended its life until March 2.

Death of Boy To Be Determine By an Autopsy

MASONVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — Police awaited the results of an autopsy today to determine the cause of death of a 15-year-old New York City boy who died shortly after arriving at a State Youth Division Camp.

State Troopers said the boy, David Oquento, arrived at Camp Brace at 8 p.m. Monday and could not be aroused at reveille the next morning. He was taken to Sidney Hospital and pronounced dead on arrival.

Police said camp officials told them the youth had drunk a solution of methadone and orange juice about 15 minutes after his arrival at the camp and that they were checking the possibility of an overdose.

Camp Brace is operated as a school for youths from broken homes. A staff member said it is not a penal camp, that the boys come voluntarily and are free to leave at any time.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency will receive Bids for Site Improvement Contract No. 2 until 2:00 p.m. E.D.T. on the 19th day of February, 1971, at the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York at which time and place all Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Bids are invited upon the items of work for site improvements: Construction of Lucas Avenue, Green Street, Converse Street, Washington Avenue, Clinton Avenue, Clinton Avenue Extension and North Front Street with related utilities: storm, sanitary, water mains, street lights, and their appurtenances.

Contract Documents, including Drawings and Technical Specifications, are on file at the office of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, 436 Broadway, Kingston, New York.

Copies of the Contract Documents may be obtained by depositing $50.00 with the Local Public Agency for each set of documents so obtained. Each such deposit will be refunded if the Drawings and Contract Documents are returned in good condition within 10 days after Bid opening.

A certified check or bank draft, payable to the order of the Local Public Agency, or negotiable U.S. Government bonds (at par value), or a satisfactory Bid Bond executed by the Bidder and an acceptable surety, in an amount equal to five per cent (5%) of the total of Bid for Site Preparation shall be submitted with each bid.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages as set forth in the Contract Documents must be paid on this project, and that the Contractor must ensure that employes and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, creed, color, religion, sex or national origin. The Local Public Agency reserves the right to reject any or all Bids or to waive any informalities in the Bidding.

Bids may be held by the Local Public Agency for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of Bids for the purpose of reviewing the Bids and investigating the qualifications of Bidders, prior to awarding of the Contract.

Dear Abby

Speeding Problems

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Our teenage daughter, I'll call her Debbie, has been driving for a year. She thinks she is a careful driver, but she drives too fast. Debbie got a ticket for going 25 miles an hour over the speed limit, and her license was suspended for 30 days. I am sure she has gone over the speed limit more than once, but this was the only time she was caught.

Debbie needs to drive to work after school, and it is so late when she is through with work, we wouldn't want her to take the bus.

My husband read about a "device" to put on a car which will monitor speed violations. We told Debbie we were going to put one on her car. She had a fit, and said it would be "spying" on her. I tried explaining that it would be better than having her license suspended again or maybe getting into a serious accident due to her habit of speeding.

Has Debbie the right to feel as she does? Or do we have the right to put one of those devices on her car?

DEBBIE'S PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Forget the device, and let the police "police" your daughter. But warn Debbie that if her speeding tickets result in revocation of her license, not to expect any "chauffeur service" from you.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have a relative who is not old, but he talks about nothing but his aches and pains and allergies. He carries a dozen different kinds of pills with him. He even bought a leather case made especially to carry his pills. He looks like a walking drugstore. He keeps asking what time it is so he can take his next pill.

Why can't he take his pills in private? I have ailments, too, but I don't make a big show of it. What is the matter with him? Do you think it would help any if someone told him in a nice way he is getting on people's nerves?

CLOSE RELATIVE

DEAR RELATIVE: The matter with him is that he wants attention and sympathy. And no, it wouldn't help if someone told him he is getting on people's nerves. (He might have to increase the dosage to calm HIS.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a married man and the father of four. As a salesman I travel a lot, but I manage to keep up with your columns. Why do you all but hang a medal on every wife who thinks the most important thing she has to do is be a willing bed partner?

I have a wife like that, but let me tell you more about her. She sleeps all morning, gossips on the telephone for hours at a time, and she either watches daytime television or takes a nap in the afternoon. She hates housework and the house looks like it. She detests cooking, so when I'm not home, the kids get peanut butter sandwiches and potato chips for supper every night. Yet this woman thinks she's a good wife because she'll hop into bed with me at the drop of a hint.

Maybe other husbands will disagree with me, but I would rather have a cleaner house and better fed kids than a wife who lets everything else go so she can rest up for sack time.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

Thursdya, February 4

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening for you to use most progressive and intelligent ideas to gain the goodwill of influential people. State to them exactly what you have in mind and what they can do to bring your wishes to a successful ending. Be equally helpful in aiding them get what they want.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care of business and finance early but make sure you do not invest unwisely. Keep appointments. Take time for correspondence. Make some new, worthwhile contacts.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have fine new ideas for adding to present abundance, so put in operation quickly and get excellent benefits therefrom. Listen to what a business expert has to suggest. Follow the most practical advice.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to have a fine time socially today, so take advantage of invitations extended. You are easily able to gain favors you want. Show that you are at your most dynamic and charming best.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Doing those things that gain the favor of experts is good today. Make plans that will cause future to be more satisfying and successful. Stop spending so much money foolishly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Being with devoted friends can afford you a few hours of pleasure and happiness, as well as deepen friendship. A good day to go after your finest aims. You know exactly what to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good time to contact important persons who can give assistance in your plans, projects. You can give impetus to your career according to the amount of effort you put into it. Show ambition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being with persons who are able to help you with your ideas for expansion and advancement brings right results. A bigwig can also take a definite interest in you. Make this a most worthwhile day and evening.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Attending to your obligations to the best of your ability makes the right impression on those who count. Mate will now extend favors that you want. Show a most affectionate attitude.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can now come to that agreement on policy level with associates that has been impossible before this. Start early on this. Discuss with them how you think projects can be improved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get those tasks done that require thought and effort. Complete them early and well. Coworkers respect your ideas and cooperate with cheerful readiness. Do some good reading tonight. Put trash aside.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can have much fun during free time if you are with good friends. But don't neglect to get important work done. Dine with those you love this evening. Pick up the check.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Start working on home affairs without making a fuss over them and they are soon behind you. Buy a thoughtful gift that pleases your loved one. It need not be expensive, but the thought means much.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people with much energy and enthusiasm. This child will carry over clever ideas from earliest youth and will do well in any field that requires a cambination of ability logic and ingenuity. Teach early to complete whatever is started instead of leaving it and going off to something else. A good education at a modern college is good, since this is a New Era type of child. Sports a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

EAR ACHE: (Q.) I am a faithful fan of yours and have never seen you give anyone wrong advice.

I like to wear my hair up once in a while, but I can't because my right ear sticks out. I've tried everything from taping it back to wearing a headband all night, but nothing works. What should I do?—Ear Trouble in Orono, Me.

(A.) A couple of softly dangling curls can be set to fall gently over and in front of your ears. The boys will look at the curls and never notice your outstuck ear. Especially if you wear pretty earrings to further catch their attention.

A badly flapping ear can, of course, be corrected by surgery, but I don't believe your situation is that serious.

FAKE: (Comment) I think you're a big fake You make up all the letters you print. You don't print any that you get from people. I dare you to print this the way I have it written. Also you don't print any from small towns because you don't think we're important.

A little while ago I wrote you a letter asking for some address of the U.S.O., but I can imagine where you put it! Well, ain't you going to answer this? You've answered much stupider ones. Some of the letters you make up sound like you have been tripping out. Come on now, any halfwit knows they are made-up letters. So wise up and start printing letters that the kids send you.—Not Fooled in Gardiner, Me.

(A.) Each month I get thousands of letters. Many of them are so blunt and strong that I couldn't possibly make up letters to match them. Everyone who encloses a stamped, self-addressed envelope gets an answer.

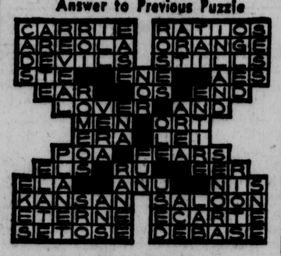

The 15 letters printed each week are the most typical of all of that week's mail. Many of the letters used come from small towns.

Although your letter isn't typical, it's funny. We all need a laugh now and then.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered)

'The Point' Just Rambled

NEW YORK (AP) — When animation is used in a television program outside the Saturday morning children's hours, it often is designed to convey some great truth.

So it was with "The Point," a 90-minute cartoon fable which was ABC's "Movie of the Week" Tuesday night. The story of little Oblio made clear the message at the outset: He was a sweet, well-intentioned boy with the misfortune to be born with a round head in a land where points—on buildings and atop human heads—were the norm. As a consequence, Oblio suffered all sorts of indignities and perils including being banished to the Pointless Forest. However, he was so eager to do right that he came through unscathed and returned home in triumph.

This was done in rather primitive drawings while the story line was punched up by some forgettable music and a narration by Dustin Hoffman.

It was a decided departure for the anthology series. While the moral was trite and obvious, the program was not without interest although it rambled along about an hour more than was needed.

The intrepid George Plimpton, who seems ready to try anything once, came along on ABC next with an hour reporting his adventures as a performer in a circus. High point was his debut as a trapeze performer. The tall man, looking tense and awkward, climbed high on the small platform, grabbed the trapeze bar and swung into space. He was caught by his partner but when launched on his return trip, his hand slipped and he landed in the net below.

It was anticlimactic when he ber of people who knew him made his swing successfully later after the audience had left the tent.

Plimpton's diffident manner and Eastern-prep-school accent make him a rather remote figure in situations where the viewer must identify closely.

CBS's "60 Minutes" busily covered some familiar ground. One of its main features was a recollection of Spiro T. Agnew's early days in Baltimore. A numwhen remember young Ted as a witty, fun-loving fellow who worked hard and made a practice of learning one new word a day.

The second big feature, a report of Howard Hughes, showed interviews with associates and one very old newsreel clip of the publicity shy billionaire. The feature revealed little that was not known before.

Jacoby Transfer Could Save Slam

WEST ♠10987 ♥5 ♦J853 ♣A874		EAST ♠KJ42 ♥643 ♦9742 ♣53
	SOUTH ♠53 ♥AKJ72 ♦KQ6 ♣QJ6

	1N.T.	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♥	Pass	6♥
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠10

The greatest advantage the Jacoby Transfer bid gives its users is having the no-trump hand as declarer so that the lead comes up to it and not through it.

North had only 15 high-card points for his no-trump opener, but his three 10s and two nines gave his hand so much potential that he was justified in his bid.

South had full values plus a lot of extra for his three-heart response although his jump to the slam had to be an overbid. North might have 17 high-card points and only the queen and jack of spades.

The slam collapsed with the opening lead. South had to try the spade finesse and after it lost the ace of clubs was a sure setting trick.

South was bitter about his partner's 15-point no-trump, the losing spade finesse and the fact that a spade was led against him.

Let's see what would happen if South had used the Jacoby Transfer we recommend in JACOBY MODERN. He would have responded two diamonds to show at least five hearts and a hand of any strength. North would go to two hearts.

South might settle for game, but he would probably temporize with a three-diamond call. This bid of a new suit is a game force and usually suggests a slam. North might look at his 15 points and make a minimum rebid in hearts but he might decide he had just the right fit and bid three spades to show that ace and invite a slam.

After that, South could go to six hearts which is a cinch as long as North is declarer, since a spade lead can't hurt him.

The Questions About Laos — No Plans, Just Assurances

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Nixon consulting key national-security advisors, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has asked for information about a rumored U.S.-South Vietnamese operation near the Laotian border.

Nixon held an unannounced meeting with some of his highest advisors late Tuesday, and administration spokesmen refused to discuss military plans —except to repeat assurances no U.S. troops have crossed into Laos and none will.

There was no indication any decision was reached in Nixon's meeting with Secretary of State William P. Rogers; Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird; Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; foreign-policy adviser Henry Kissinger, and Richard Helms, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Washington Post reported today 25,000 South Vietnamese ground troops were massed near the Laotian border Tuesday, "preparing to raid Vietnamese Communist bases and supply lines in Laos with U.S. air support.

"Operating with them, U.S. sources unofficially acknowledged, is a screening force of about 9,000 American troops, who are under instructions to halt at the Laotian border when cross-border operations begin," the newspaper reported.

Rogers insisted last Friday that unlimited U.S. airpower will be available anywhere in Indochina to protect GIs withdrawing from South Vietnam. He refused at that time to discuss whether the assurance was related to any planned offensive.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he can't understand why Rogers failed to tell the panel last week about plans for the operation which some foreign newsmen say already is under way.

Fulbright said the secrecy-covered operation reminds him of last April when Rogers testified before the committee two days before the start of the U.S. incursion into Cambodia.

"He didn't mention that either," Fulbright said after the committee voted to summon Rogers and Laird as soon as possible for testimony about the operation—in open session if possible.

Rumors of some massive allied assault into the Laotian panhandle, designed to destroy Communist supply lines leading into South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia from the north, have been building since last Friday.

U.S. officials, here and in Saigon, have refused to discuss the rumors. However, Laird conceded publicly Tuesday that an embargo has been imposed on news stories relating to such an offensive.

Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said the State Department told him last Friday U.S. and South Vietnamese troops are massed near the Laotian border "for a large operation we might be undertaking .... The administration has given us to understand they're preparing for a massive attack from the north."

Meanwhile, a Hanoi broadcast said the pro-Communist Pathet Lao sent an urgent message to Great Britain and the Soviet Union, cochairmen of the 1962 Geneva Convention on Laos, denouncing "new U.S. adventures" in Laos.

The message referred to an intrusion into Laos of Thai troops and of a U.S.-South Vietnamese buildup poised "to enter and attack Laos."

In Saigon a South Vietnamese spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that Saigon forces had entered Laos.

The Foreign Relations Committee voted to hold new public hearings on U.S. involvement in Indochina, including Nixon administration plans for ending the war.

TIME OUT FOR QUESTIONS — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird is questioned by newsmen as he leaves a hearing of the Senate Armed Services Committee on Tuesday. Laird declared that no American troops are being used in Laos, and that none will be. But he declined to further discuss Allied military operations in that area. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

American Planes Continue the Bombing

SAIGON (AP) — Allied headquarters today reported stepped-up fighting in the northern provinces of South Vietnam for the third day in a row, while just across the border in southern Laos, hundreds of American planes struck at North Vietnamese supply convoys and dumps in the 117th day of the most sustained bombing campaign of the war.

Seven ground fights were reported in the northern quadrant, and the U.S. Command reported 75 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed by U.S. and South Vietnamese foot soldiers, bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery. Ten South Vietnamese soldiers were reported wounded.

North Vietnamese troops early today routed neutralist Laotian troops from Muong Soui, northwest of the Plain of Jars, and overran the town, the Defense Ministry announced.

A spokesman said the North Vietnamese used about five tanks to drive out the neutralist battalion defending the town 108 miles north of Vientiane.

He said the ministry had lost radio contact with the defenders and had no casualty report.

The spokesman said the military situation in northern Laos is worsening, with three Communist battalions surrounding Luang Prabang, the royal capital 134 miles north of Vientiane, and with clashes reported around Ban Na, 90 miles northeast of Vientiane.

The Defense Ministry said Monday that the North Vietnamese and their allies of the Communist Pathet Lao were building up for an offensive in northern Laos. A spokesman said one target might be Long Cheng, southwest of the Plain of Jars, a headquarters for operations of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

The Pathet Lao radio claimed today that Thailand had sent a special battalion into the Bolovens Plateau of southern Laos to reinforce two other Thai battalions which the broadcast said had been operating there. The area adjoins northeast Thailand.

The enemy fired 15 rockets into the headquarters compound of the U.S. Americal Division at Chu Lai, 50 miles south of Da Nang, and mortared a defensive positon of U.S. Marines nine miles northwest of Da Nang. Field reports said four Americans were wounded.

Four South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded, six boxcars wrecked and traffic temporarily suspended along the Da Nang-to-Hue railroad line when two trains hit mines about an hour apart, the South Vietnamese command said.

The enemy's postTet activity began early Monday in the northern sector and in South Vietnam's central highlands and central coastal regions. Tet, the Vietnamese lunar new year festival, was celebrated a week ago. The Viet Cong's four-day holiday cease-fire ended Saturday.

Military spokesmen said 38 small-unit contacts were reported during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today, down considerably from 76 in the previous 24 hours.

The U.S. Command said an Air Force A37 jet bomber crashed Monday night in northeastern Cambodia while on a mission against the Ho Chi Minh trail. The pilot was killed.

The South Vietnamese government charged that the North Vietnamese launched 21 attacks during the 24-hour allied Tet truce last week. A protest note to the International Control Commission said 24 persons were killed and 58 wounded.

In Cambodia, the government reported 322 Cambodians who were forced to join the antigovernment forces surrendered together Monday at Kompong Kantuot, a military outpost 15 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Meanwhile in Saigon, a spokesman for the South Vietnamese Defense Ministry said today that he could not confirm or deny reports that the Saigon government had sent troops into southern Laos to attack North Vietnamese troops and supplies on the Ho Chi Minh trail.

"As far as I know," Lt. Col. Nguyen Tuyen said in Saigon, "there are no South Vietnamese troops in Laos. Up to now I have no information about that. I cannot confirm or deny it."

Earlier today, the chief spokesman for the South Vietnamese military command, Lt. Col. Tran Van An, said he had "no comment" on the reports which have been circulating for several days in various capitals.

Sen. Byrd Likely to Lead SST for Administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress renews the fight over funding the supersonic transport plane, the floor manager for the Nixon administration project likely will be Robert C. Byrd, the Senate's No. 2 Democrat.

The West Virginian, who toppled Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts to become party whip last month, is the new chairman of the transportation subcommittee of the Appropriations Committee, the panel that considers SST funds.

Logically, this new assignment would throw Byrd, a supporter of the project, the job of trying to push the SST through the Senate. This means that in the first major battle since becoming whip, Byrd probably will find himself opposing most of his fellow Democrats, including Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield.

Under a compromise permitting adjournment of the 91st Congress only a day before its legal expiration, the House and Senate will have to consider next month a new appropriations bill financing the Department of Transportation, including the faster-than-sound plane, from March 30 to June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

Byrd backed $290 million for the SST last year, when it was approved by the House and defeated in the Senate, and is expected to support the project again.

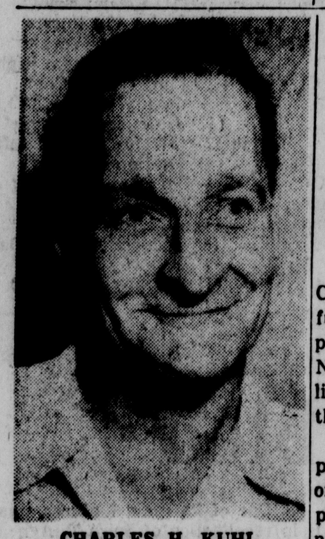

While appointment to the transportation subcommittee could be a boost for the administration, the White House may see some changes in the way the Appropriations defense subcommittee is run.

Allen J. Ellender, D-La., chairman of Appropriations, is taking over the defense panel long headed by the late Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

Russell was a strong defender of Pentagon programs; Ellender is a long time critic of defense waste. He opposed the Safeguard antiballistic-missile system and favors sharp reduction of U.S. troop strength in Europe, likely to be a major issue this year.

To take the defense spot, Ellender is giving up chairmanship of the public works subcommittee to John C. Stennis, D-Miss.

Gale McGee, D-Wyo., is succeeding retired Spessard Holland, D-Fla., as chairman of the agriculture subcommittee. McGee's old post of foreign aid subcommittee chief will go to William Proxmire, D-Wis. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, is new chairman of the District of Columbia subcommittee.

CHARLES H. KUHL

Soldier Struck by Patton Dies

MISHAWAKA, Ind. (AP) — Charles H. Kuhl, the soldier Gen. George S. Patton Jr. slapped in a Sicilian hospital during World War II, has died in the obscurity he sought for 27 years.

Kuhl, a sweeper in a Mishawaka factory, died Sunday of an apparent heart attack but his death was made public only today. He was 55.

"I tried to forget it," Kuhl said in an intervew last March after the movie, "Patton," had spotlighted him again.

The colorful Patton lost command of the U.S. 7th Army as a result of the slapping incident. He spent six months in England, then became commander of the 3rd Army and again made headlines in an armored dash across Europe that helped crush the German enemy.

Patton was killed in an auto accident in December 1945 after the war had ended.

"I think he was a great general," Kuhl said in the interview. "I think he went a little bit over his needs, personally. I mean he was a glory hunter. I think at the time it happened, I think he was pretty well worn out—pretty well shot himself. I think he was suffering a little battle fatigue himself."

Say Welfare Specifics Lacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen under pressure to speed action on President Nixon's long-stalled welfare reform-Social Security legislation complain they have not been given the proposals in workable form.

The House Ways and Means Committee started its renewed consideration of the legislation Tuesday, hearing Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and other Health, Education and Welfare officials in closed session.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said afterward many essential specifics were lacking in Richardson's presentation.

'I think we've lost about a week," he said. Earlier he had expressed hope the committee could get a bill to the House floor by the end of February.

Richardson asked for approval of Nixon's family assistance plan, with stiffer restrictions for recipients refusing work.

On Social Security, he recommended a 6 per cent benefit increase instead of the 10 per cent advocated by Mills and others, but with provision for future automatic cost-of-living increases.

Payroll taxes would be increased for those earning more than $7,800.

The secretary also advocated a number of provisions designed to hold down the cost of medicare and medicaid.

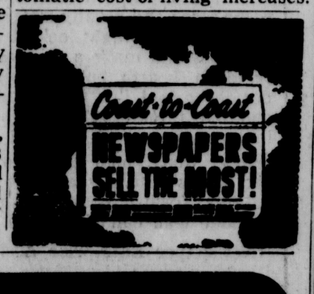

One of these certain to set off furious debate was a cost-sharing plan that Mills said apparently would require some patients to pay for part of the services they now get free.

Mills, however, added that Richardson had not spelled out this provision in sufficient detail to make all the implications clear.

The congressman said he intends to pursue the matter in detail with further questioning of HEW officials, probably next week.

Richardson's prepared testimony, made public after he spoke, mentioned in general terms a number of other issues the committee is certain to want examined in detail.

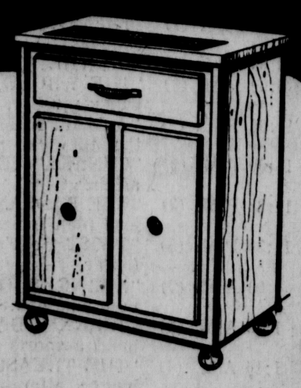

One brings up the long-debated question of substituting cash benefits for food stamps.
